

Senate Votes Jury Trials in Criminal Contempt Actions

Desegregation Training Program Retained in Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate wrote a jury trial amendment into the civil rights bill today, then defeated a proposal to knock out provisions for government-financed training in how to handle school desegregation problems.

Next the Senate turned down a proposal by Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper, R-Iowa, to eliminate three sections of the school desegregation title of the bill.

Under these sections, the U.S. Office of Education could arrange for and finance institutes to train school personnel in dealing with desegregation problems, could pay stipends to those attending the institutes, and could make grants to school boards to pay at least part of the cost of local training of personnel to handle desegregation problems and to help the boards hire specialists to advise on such problems.

The vote against this was 56 to 40. The jury trial amendment was offered by Sen. Thurston B. Morton, R-Ky., and was supported by Southerners, who have been fighting the bill for 74 days.

Thirty-one Democrats and 20 Republicans voted for the amendment. Voting against it were 35 Democrats and 13 Republicans.

One of the Republicans who supported the amendment was Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, the front runner for the GOP presidential nomination.

It was the Senate's first vote in relation to the bill since May 6. Later in the day it was to debate and act on an amendment by Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper, R-Iowa, dealing with school desegregation, and one by Sen. Norris Cotton, R-N.H., dealing with discrimination in employment.

Jury Trial Pledge
Morton's proposal would guarantee a jury trial in all criminal contempt cases growing out of violations of injunctions obtained under all titles of the bill excepting voting rights.

The guarantee would apply particularly to the titles barring discrimination in public accommodations, employment, public facilities and schools.

On voting rights, the Kentucky would not disturb the 1957 Civil Rights Act. This gives a defendant in a criminal contempt case a jury trial only if the judge decides on a penalty

8 Die in Montana Floods; Loss Estimated at Millions

Waters Sweep From Mountains, Dams Break, Bridges Carried Away

GREAT FALLS, Mont. (AP)—Floods described as the worst in memory swept out of Montana's northwestern mountains Monday, killing at least eight persons, sweeping away dams and bridges and leaving hundreds of residents isolated. Rain pelted the area for the fifth straight day.

At least 70 persons were reported missing.

Authorities said the death toll included five members of one Blackfoot Indian family.

A girl was reported drowned in Valier, on the Indian reservation, and two motorists were killed after their vehicles plunged into raging streams.

In Glacier National Park, more than 200 persons were reported cut off by flooded roads or washed-out bridges. Many were park employees preparing for the summer tourist season.

Col. Howard McKinney of the Montana National Guard said the floods were the greatest natural disaster the state has ever suffered.

Damage estimates ranged into the millions of dollars.

Rescue workers were blocked in many places by washed-out bridges and long stretches of inundated highway. At least 20 bridges and four earthen dams were carried away by the pounding water.

Surprise Deluge
Powered by near-record rains and late-melting mountain snowpacks, the floods hit by surprise.

Center of the flood area was northwest of Great Falls where the surging streams coursed through small communities and ranch homes.

Despite poor flying weather, one jet-powered Air Force helicopter penetrated the flood-stricken area.

With a sling and hoist, Air Force medics lifted seven persons from perches ranging from tree limbs to roof tops. An Air Force spokesman said one man was taken from a roof just as it started to go under water.

30-Foot Wall of Water
Destruction was heaviest in the small communities of Augusta, Choteau, Browning and Dupuyer.

Dams burst near Choteau.

Browning, Dupuyer and East Glacier sending walls of water up to 30 feet high over the sparsely populated area.

Col. McKinney set up a rescue operations center in Helena, the state capital, after acting Gov. Dave Manning declared the floods a state emergency. Gov. Tim Babcock was in Cleveland at the National Governors Conference.

In hard-hit Choteau, all 2,000 residents left their homes to seek shelter overnight in a church and country club on higher ground.

Nearly 1,000 persons were

Anti-Goldwater Drive Still on, Nixon Asserts

Arizonan Confident Ike Will Not Upset His Nomination

CLEVELAND (AP) — Gov. George Romney of Michigan said today that former Vice President Richard M. Nixon has urged him to offer a "clear choice" between moderate Republicans and Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., in the contest for the GOP presidential nomination.

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon said today the search for an alternative candidate to Sen. Barry Goldwater for the Republican presidential nomination still is being continued by GOP governors.

Goldwater breezed through the 56th annual Governors Conference Monday night and flew back to Washington with confidence that former President Dwight D. Eisenhower will not upset his bid for the nomination.

The Arizona Republican said in an interview he thinks the former president is about the only man who could keep him from getting the nomination. He said he is convinced that Eisenhower will remain neutral.

Criticism Continues
Nixon, the 1960 presidential nominee, said after a breakfast meeting with GOP governors today that several of them who are not satisfied with Goldwater's conservative views are still trying to get together on a candidate they can back.

He said this candidate should be a governor and not himself. He indicated he thinks the most likely possibilities are Govs. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania and George Romney of Michigan.

It was Nixon's opinion that the chances for an agreement on a candidate the party moderates

Politician in Panama Shot By Associate

Robert Arias May Be Paralyzed if He Survives Bullets

BY LUIS NOLI
PANAMA (AP) — Shot down by a disgruntled party associate, Robert Arias was given a chance to live today but it still was a question whether the colorful politician will be paralyzed.

As police hunted the assailant, Arias' wife, British ballerina Dame Margot Fonteyn, said in Bath, England, she will fly to her husband's bedside Wednesday.

She has been a star at the Bath festival. She told the festival organizers she hoped to be back by Saturday for her last two performances. She had last seen her husband three weeks ago in Panama.

Wife Reassured
At first, Dame Margot said that unless her husband, shot three times with one bullet lodged against the spine, took a turn for the worse she would continue her performances. She was to be featured tonight with the Russian dancer, Rudolf Nureyev.

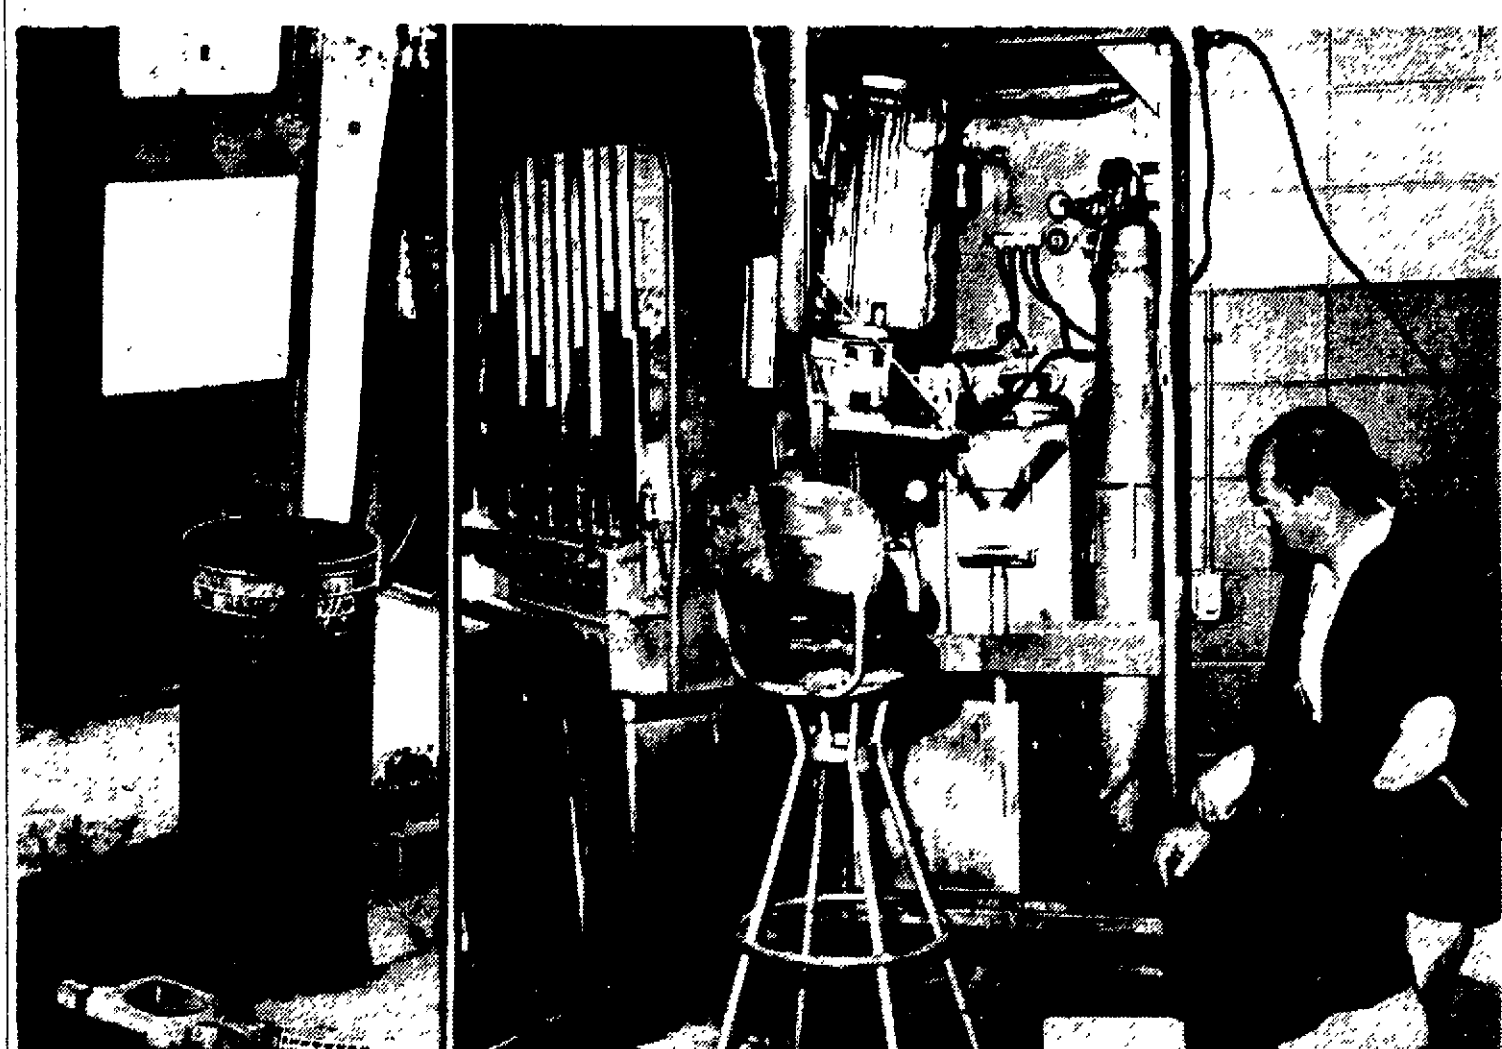

At that time she had received word from her brother-in-law, Harmondio Arias, that her husband was out of danger.

Suspect Hunted
Arias was an unsuccessful candidate for Panamanian presidency.

Dr. Antonio Gonzalez Revilla, who headed a team of neurosurgeons in a 2½-hour operation on Arias, said it would be 72 hours before he could say whether his 45-year-old patient would live or whether he would be paralyzed.

Police sought Alfredo Jimenez, a member of Arias' Panamanian party.

U. S. Jet Pilot Reported to be Red Prisoner

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—The Communist Pathet Lao was reported today to have captured a U.S. Navy jet pilot shot down on a photo-reconnaissance mission over the jungles of central Laos.

Reliable sources said the Pathet Lao headquarters in Khang Khay informed its officials in Vientiane of the capture of Lt. Charles F. Klusmann, 30, of San Diego, Calif., who had parachuted from his Crusader jet fighter on Saturday.

Pathet Lao officials in Vientiane declined to confirm the report. An air search continued for Klusmann.

Second Flier Rescued
A U.S. helicopter rescued Cmdr. Doyle W. Lynn of La Mesa, Calif., Monday and flew him back to the aircraft carrier Kitty Hawk in the South China Sea. Lynn's Crusader was hit Sunday while he was escorting a reconnaissance mission.

The Pathet Lao has held another American flier, a civilian, Eugene DeBruin of Kaukauna, Wis., a flier for the Air America charter company, was captured last September when his transport plane was shot down in southern Laos.

Burglar May Have Set Fire To Car Wash to Hide Prints

Appleton Blaze Definitely Work Of Arson, State Marshal Says

BY RAY PY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

A burglar who apparently sought to cover up tell-tale fingerprints by setting fire to coin machines he pilfered, is thought by authorities to be responsible for an early morning blaze which extensively damaged the Auto Wash, 1714 E. Wisconsin Ave. on Appleton's northeast side.

Two fires which started among gasoline soaked rags and in gasoline pools burned machinery in the interior of the building and caused extensive smoke damage throughout the building. Destroyed were four coin machines, a cash register and other office equipment in the cashier's office. No estimate of the damage was made. The loss is covered by insurance. The building was constructed one year ago for $35,000.

Firemen were called to the firm about 3:30 a.m. when a passerby saw flames breaking through a window near the cashier's cage.

Capt. Donald Dexter said firemen opened the rear of the building to reach the fire then discovered the second fire among the brushes and machinery in the middle of the building.

Dexter said when firemen arrived, the front door of the building was standing fully open and the rear door had been opened enough to allow a person to crawl through.

When the fire subsided to allow firemen to investigate, it was discovered that four coin machines had been forced open and the coin boxes rifled. Police were then called to investigate.

Soaked With Gasoline
Authorities said the burglar or burglars may have placed rags along the bottoms of the coin machines then soaked them with gasoline carried from the outside gasoline pumps in large canister ash trays.

One ash tray, still half filled with gasoline, was found near a gasoline pump. A hose from the pump was lying on the ground near the canister. Records showed 18 gallons of gasoline were used.

U. S. Cleared of Charges Made By Panamanians

GENEVA (AP) — The International Commission of Jurists today cleared the United States of Panamanian charges that American troops and police violated human rights in the bloody Panama Canal Zone riots last January.

The commission found, however, that excessive force may have been used to put down the rioting and to stop sniping from the Panamanian side of the border.

The commission also criticized Panamanian authorities for failing to curb the rioters and snipers and for doing nothing against inflammatory broadcasts at the height of the crisis.

Twenty-two persons, including three American soldiers, were killed. About 325 others were injured during the incidents Jan. 9-12. Panamanian crowds, enraged in a dispute about the flying of the Panamanian flag in the Canal Zone, burned down several buildings and wrecked cars, shops and other American property.

10-Year Political Ban

Kubitschek Ousted From Brazil's Senate, Barred From Presidency

BY EDGAR MILLER

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — New political turmoil threatened Brazil today because of the purge of Juscelino Kubitschek, banned from politics elections—which are the only for 10 years to keep him from valid manifestation in a truly democratic regime.

President Humberto Castello Branco signed a decree ousting Kubitschek's Social Democratic Party from his Senate party, largest in Brazil, to with-seat and removing the political draw support from Castello leader who had been the leading spokesman said party leaders contender for the presidency in October 1965.

Over 200 Lose Rights
The suave former society surgeon joined more than 200 persons whose political rights have day night, singing the national anthem and cheering the former president. They carried him through the streets on their shoulders.

A clash threatened when followers of Kubitschek's old foe Carlos Lacerda, governor of Guanabara State and a rival they are afraid of the manifestation of the people," said Kubitschek, "and thus with this brutality act they (the government) remove me from the road of democratic regime."

The ouster could prompt Kubitschek from his Senate party, largest in Brazil, to with-seat and removing the political draw support from Castello leader who had been the leading spokesman said party leaders contender for the presidency in October 1965.

Several thousand supporters massed outside Kubitschek's apartment house in Rio Monday night, singing the national anthem and cheering the former president. They carried him through the streets on their shoulders.

A clash threatened when followers of Kubitschek's old foe Carlos Lacerda, governor of Guanabara State and a rival presidential candidate, arrived and began jeering. They dispersed when the Kubitschek crowd continued to grow.

Kubitschek came to prominence as governor of Minas Gerais State during the final term of Getulio Vargas, who committed suicide in August 1954.

Campaigning for president on a pledge to make Brazil an industrial giant, he was elected and launched his regime with Goulart as vice president on Jan. 31, 1964.

Invited Foreign Capital
As president, he opened Brazil's doors to foreign investment, transforming the land into South America's most industrialized nation.

The constitution barred Kubitschek from re-election and Quadros won the presidency in 1960. Goulart, Quadros' vice president also, moved up when Quadros resigned in 1961.

Your Problems

Emotional Stability Not Always Equated With Mental Capacity

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Thanks for straightening me out.

I always thought Winston Churchill and the late General Douglas MacArthur were great men, but after reading the column in which you O.K.'d the nutty theory smoking to an adult is what a pacifier is to an infant I have changed my mind. According to your theory these men were actually grown-up babies.

The person who wrote said small children can suck their thumbs and drag a dirty blanket around but adults would be led off to the loony bin if they did such things, so smoking is their substitute.

It's difficult to understand how grown-up babies could become world leaders. Since you are so doggone smart I'd appreciate your explanation.

Thanks for reading this letter, which I'm sure will get no further than the wastebasket.

JHP of Richmond

DEAR JHP: Mental capacity and leadership qualities do not equate with emotional stability. (Hitler, Mussolini, Stalin, Castro.) Many leaders in the fields of science, art, medicine were, and are, brilliant thinkers but at the personal level their lives were and are, a mess.

History is replete with examples of accomplished people who were so poorly adjusted that they eventually killed themselves with the help of a high window, a gun, a bottle or the gas pipe.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Recently you printed a letter from a teen-ager who said she had a million freckles and hated stain use a bleach to remove it. Every one of them. You told it may be best to test this on her about sandpaper, surgery, the hem or other inconspicuous warned against quacks and so place.

on. Will you please print this faded, shopworn, marked-down letter and perhaps wake up some of these foolish kids? What in the world is wrong with freckles? The lovely woman to whom I have been married for over 15 years has a million freckles and I love every one of them. In fact, her freckles are what attracted me when we met at an Epworth League picnic 20 years ago.

Freckles are part of a girl's personality. They give her that natural, sun-kissed look. Freckles are wholesome, out-doorish, frank and honest. Any girl who would bleach a freckle, attempt to cover it with heavy make-up or, heaven forbid, resort to surgery has rocks in her head. — Voice of Dissent

Dear Voice: Thanks for the greatest testimonial for freckles since Doris Day lugged her first million dollars to the bank. Several men (no women) wrote to express the same point of view, but you did it most convincingly.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: That letter from the woman who was made at her rich aunt who shopped in August for Christmas gifts and then ended up giving

Water Removes Chocolate Stains

How do you get out chocolate stains?

You need to treat a chocolate stain as both a greasy and a non-greasy stain.

When the stain is in a washable garment soak the spot in cool water for 20 minutes. If the stain remains, work-in liquid detergent or a paste made from granules. Rinse well and then dry. If a greasy stain remains use carbon tetrachloride or other grease solvent.

If there is still color in the stain use a bleach to remove it. It may be best to test this on her about sandpaper, surgery, the hem or other inconspicuous warned against quacks and so place.

West opened the queen of diamonds, and East signalled encouragement with the five. This was a polite gesture, but West was overboard.

South refused the first diamond, won the second, and drew three rounds of trumps. He ruffed dummy's last diamond and ran the three clubs, ending in dummy.

With the stage thus set, declarer led a heart from dummy. East played low, of course, and South played the nine.

Beyond Rescuing

West was now beyond rescuing. If West led hearts, South would win a trick with the king. If West led anything else, dummy would ruff while South got rid of a heart. Either way South would lose only two hearts and one diamond.

We must admit that East was polite at the first trick. If East were vigorous and effective, he would play the king of diamonds on his partner's queen. This play would prevent West from falling overboard.

If South refuses the first trick, East holds the lead and promptly returns a heart up to dummy's weakness. West takes one heart trick with the jack and exits safely with a club or diamond. South must eventually give up two more heart tricks.

Even if South wins the first diamond trick, he must lose a diamond later. East makes sure to win this with the ten in order to lead a heart. This prompt action rescues West from the end play.

Daily Question

Partner opens with one heart, and the next player passes. You hold: S 8; H A Q J 7; D Q J 9 7; C J 9 5 2. What do you say?

Answer: Bid three hearts.

This forcing raise shows strong trump support (four or more) with a total count of 13 to 16 points. You have 11 points in high cards and should count 3 points for the singleton.

Today's Etiquette

BY LOUISE DAVIS

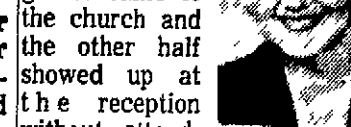

STRANGE GOINGS-ON

Dear Louise: My sister is to be married in a few weeks.

When her fiancé's cousin was married last summer, we were surprised to find that one half of the guests came to the church and the other half showed up at the reception without attending the ceremony. I think this is the height of rudeness and don't want to happen to my sister. Don't you think that these people who are only out for a good time are bores? Has all the beauty and sincerity vanished from weddings?

Louise Davis Answers:

No. Such cases as you describe are exceptions. It seems very strange that half of the invited guests stayed away from the ceremony and turned up at the reception. Naturally, allowances have to be made for emergencies which cause a few to attend only the ceremony or the reception. I don't know why this happened in the case of the fiancé's cousin's wedding last summer, but a 50 per cent absence from the ceremony amounts to rudeness. It doesn't make sense. You can only hope that these invited to your sister's wedding and reception will have the good sense and good taste to attend both.

BLACK TIE

Dear Louise: If an invitation states "black tie," does that mean I am to wear a black suit?

Louise Davis Answers:

No. The phrase "black tie" is a subtle way of saying, "The party will be formal so please wear a tuxedo."

Most people don't realize how low Chrysler's new prices really are. Do you?

We find that many people think a Chrysler is a high-priced car. Quite frankly, some models are. But what many people don't realize is that some Chrysler models are actually priced lower than a small car equipped the way you'd want it.

Take the Chrysler Newport sedan. Manufacturer's suggested retail price is only $2901, not including the variables like state and local taxes, destination charges and optional equipment. That's $2901—which includes such good things as a 361-cubic-inch V-8. The kind of engine you'd pay extra for on a smaller car.

Interesting, isn't it?

Then why stick with the smaller jobs? They can't muster the room, the ride, the luxury or the performance you really want—no matter how many extra-cost options you put on them.

TV Industry Forgets Old, Honorable Axiom

Sales Campaigns Should Extoll Products, But Not Rap Competitors' Merchandise

BY JINGO
Hard-hitting sales campaigns are best aimed at telling the world how wonderful you or your product is without reference to the horrible qualities of your competitors. This is axiomatic in most sales organizations — but the TV industry seems to have forgotten it.

About this time of the year, Jingo usually is receiving glowing reports from the TV networks about how well their next year's programs are being gobbled up by advertisers. But not this year!

According to "Variety," show business newspapers, the reason for this dearth of glowing reports is the networks' forgetting that old selling axiom.

The Emmy debacle — behind scenes at any rate — was one of the manifestations of this selling difficulty which has led the networks to do their selling along the line of rapping the other guy.

Wrong Direction
Variety's report indicates that the networks aren't aiming in the right direction to correct their mistakes either. They're starting to try and meet the sales gap with rate cutting. The published price lists mean nothing these days. Variety says, as deals and dealings are cutting away the price structure. An old cartoon comes to mind. It's a picture of a hobo saying, "Yes, I always was the low bidder."

Sales Slump
The TV sales slump has been laid at the door of the networks' hanging out their dirty wash in public, but it also could mean that the advertisers are beginning to realize that the huge expenses entailed in TV commercials aren't as wise as they seemed some time ago when advertising budgets were practically turned over to the boob tube men.

If this is the case, several things may happen. TV may come up with better grade shows — hence more saleable

Old Glory Stars on TV Special Today

BY TV SCOUT
8-9 (Channel 4-5)—The Red, White and Blue, Project 20's high waving salute to American patriotism, is narrated by Walter Brennan, with the Spirit of 1776 kettle drums beating out the "Stars and Stripes Forever." (Color)

9-10 (Channel 4-5) — The French Army, a proud power that once ruled Europe and the continents beyond, passes in review under the critical, and often perceptive eyes of George A. Vicas, head of NBC European News. According to Vicas, L'Armee Francaise has never recovered from the blood bath it suffered in World War I, and his cameras tell why.

6:30-7:30 (Channel 11)—Combat repeats the finale of "The Long Way Home," with Vic Morrow plotting a second, obviously last-ditch escape try from a German prison compound for his squad.

6:30-7:30 (Channel 4-5) — An episode, which might have been called "The Blues for Mr. Novak," is repeated on Mr. Novak. In this one, our gallant young school master scuffles with one of his students and unfortunately breaks his arm.

7-8 (Channel 2) — The Red Skelton Hour repeats the session when Eve Arden, the former Miss Brooks, plays Red's wife in a witty sketch called, "Where There's a Will There's a Wife."

7:30-8 (Channel 4-5) — "The Martyr," a suspense thriller set during the Irish Rebellion of 1922, is revived on Moment of Fear, the summer series which presents selected repeats of past-season prime-time shows.

8-9 (Channel 11)—The Greatest Show on Earth repeats "Where the Wire Ends," one of its lesser efforts of the season. Dorothy Malone, a low wire walker, isn't the fine performer she once was before an accident. (Color)

8:30-9 (Channel 2)—The Jack Benny Program repeats an oldie from its 1961 season when suave, sophisticated Jack visited Tennessee Ernie Ford at his farm.

9-10 (Channel 11)—The Fugitive repeats "Smoke Screen," a taut, strangely moving episode, despite a plot outline that sounds like a soap opera with delusions of grandeur. David Janssen is working as a fruit harvester with a group of hostile Mexicans. But then a forest fire envelops the nearby area, and the pregnant wife of a picker follows her husband into the fire area.

9-10 (Channel 2)—The Garry Moore Show repeats the session when Terry-Thomas, the British

Actress Mary Pickford, sweetheart of the silent film days, and her husband Buddy Rogers, former popular band leader, are shown in London where they are visiting for six weeks. The couple intends to visit old friends and pick up some of Miss Pickford's old movies. The 71-year-old actress says she wants them for a Hollywood museum. (AP Wirephoto)

Hawaii New Home for Richard Boone

Plans to Establish Multi-Use Studios On Island of Oahu

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — It's goodbye Hollywood, for Richard Boone.

The moving vans have pulled up before his westside home, his cars have been shipped, and he shifts to his new residence on the island of Oahu, Hawaii.

After 14 years as a Hollywood actor, including service in three television series, Boone is moving his wife and 10-year-old son to the islands. That doesn't mean he's relegating himself to a life of ease among the palms and pineapples.

"I am not capable of retiring," he explained. "I'm merely shifting my base of operations to a place that is only 4 1/2 hours away from Hollywood by jet. I expect to be here often, if producers call me, and I hope they do."

Ambitious Plan
He also hopes to be working in the islands. He has an ambitious plan in mind.

"I think I've learned the production side of our business pretty well—I'd be pretty stupid if I hadn't," he said. "I want to establish a film studio in Hawaii with the purpose of producing features and television series and providing a base for other movie companies that come to Hawaii for locations. The idea would be to build two sound stages—one for shooting and one where sets would be prepared—plus an office complex. It would have to be on Oahu because of transportation. Also, the film lab is there, and the four television stations can provide tape and other facilities."

"The studio would be a boon for film locations. It would give companies cover sets to use in case of bad weather; within two hours they could be shooting indoors. Time lost by weather can be murder on a budget."

Blackstone at 78 Only Survivor of Bygone Era

BY BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The wild shock of hair is thinner, the frame seems slimmer than it did when covered by satin robes. But the hands of Blackstone the magician remain as supple and steady as when they baffled audiences from coast to coast.

At 78, Harry Blackstone lives in Hollywood and still keeps in touch with his magical art.

"I'm not retired—just tired," he cracks.

Blackstone is the sole survivor of the great era of American magic that also produced such names as Houdini, Keller and Thurston. All mounted big shows that played theaters and vaudeville houses in the first few decades of this century. Blackstone was the last to leave the field.

Tricks in Storage
"I quit eight years ago," he said. "I lost $35,000 one year, $60,000 the next and $90,000 the next."

"I just couldn't buck television. People didn't want to pay $5.50 a seat to watch magic when they could stay at home for nothing and watch television and drink beer."

His 200 major tricks were put into storage in Hollywood, New York City, Philadelphia, York, Pa., and his longtime home at Colon, Mich.

Many are major productions; he figures his girl-in-levitation stunt cost $17,000 to conceive. Of late he has been selling the tricks to professional and amateur magicians—one famous Hollywood figure has bought several.

Timed Exactly
Blackstone timed those tricks to the split-second and cherished each one. Yet he parts with them without regret. He looks cheerfully back on a life and career that were full and gratifying.

He was infected with the magic virus in 1898, when he saw a performance of the great Keller in Chicago. The boy sneaked out his bedroom window to see the show again and his return was discovered by his father. When young Harry confessed where he had gone, his father said, "Why didn't you tell me? I'd have gone with you."

Father and son saw the show every night for a week, and Harry met Keller backstage. The trouper's advice on how to be a magician "By using that part of your anatomy from your neck up."

Began as Amateur
Blackstone began in amateur shows, then was able to leave

Big Increase in Lawrence Seniors Slated for Fall Graduate Studies

41 Per Cent of Class Going Directly Into Advanced Work Through Fellowships

A significant increase in numbers of Lawrence College seniors planning to go immediately to graduate school has taken place with the class of 1964. Last year 79, or 38.9 per cent of the class, went directly to graduate school; this year 93, or 41 per cent, are making plans for further study in the fall. Five years ago, a little more than 30 per cent of a graduating class continued their education.

More than 30 of the seniors have won fellowships or assistantships for the fall, and a number of others are still pending. Eighteen won graduate awards in national competitions, or from state or federal government sources. The others were granted by individual universities.

Seven of the class won Woodrow Wilson fellowships, matching the record of the 1963 group which had set an all-time Lawrence mark for a single class.

She will be affiliated with the Middlebury College program there. Carol Zimm, Rockford, Ill., was named an alternate in the German scholarship program, known officially as the Deutsche Akademischer Austauschdienst.

Public Aid Going More to Health Care

Medical Costs Claim 42 Per Cent of Total Assistance

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Health care payments represent an increasing proportion of the total of public assistance, according to recently compiled statistics of the State Division of Public Assistance. Last year about 42 per cent of the total public assistance costs within Wisconsin, or about $34 million, was accounted for in payments to hospitals, physicians, dentists and other vendors payments involving sickness and disability costs. The health disbursements rose nearly 10 per cent over the totals for the previous fiscal period.

Mostly Old Age Aid
The ratio of health costs to total outlays ranged from 51 per cent in the old age assistance program to four per cent for the program of aid to dependent children. During the year 84 per cent of all the persons on the old age assistance rolls received some form of health care aid. The most recent tabulation of the state division of public assistance showed a total of 113,804 persons on the public assistance case rolls of the state, at a cost of nearly $7.5 million a month to local, state and national governments.

The largest program in cost terms is the old age assistance program, which represented an outlay last month of about $3,120,000 on behalf of 28,397 persons, or an average of $110.10 per individual including the health care costs.

Concert Opens Kimberly Band's Summer Season

KIMBERLY — The Kimberly Community Band begins its 58th year of summer concerts at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at Sunset Point Park, according to Gordon Kotkosky, director.

One charter member of the band, Walter Van Eperen, still participates in concerts. He is a drummer.

Two feature numbers are planned for the program including "Polka Dots" with a cornet solo by Fred Van Landghen.

The second featured selection will be "Bone's Trombone." Other numbers planned include "War Correspondent March," "Lustspiel Overture," "St. Juliane March," "Merry Widow Waltz," "Soldiers of the Sea March," "Das Pensionat," "Some Enchanting Evening," and "Captain Anderson March."

The second band appearance this week will be at the Flag Day parade Saturday in Appleton.

Ballet Group Honors Members

Ann Brummund has been selected as the outstanding member of the Appleton Civic Ballet. It was announced at the group's 20th annual awards dinner last week.

Other special awards were presented to Mary Gabert, Judy Haase and Robert Lemke.

New officers installed at the dinner are Mrs. Jane Meighan, president, Mrs. Barbara Lamb, vice president and corresponding secretary; Robert Lemke, treasurer; Judy Haase, recording secretary; Marilyn Jesse, monitor, and Mrs. Hanna Slatery, property manager.

Tryouts for new members will be held the first week in October instead of June, as previously announced. Persons interested should contact Mrs. Robert Lemke.

Winter study abroad is planned by seniors Elizabeth Laves, Chicago, Ill., who will be at the University of London on a Marshall fellowship; and Carol Reed, Houston, Tex., who has won a Federal Republic of Germany award at the University of Mainz. She will be associated with the Middlebury graduate school program at Mainz.

Jeff Steffen, Sheboygan, will be a student at the University of the Americas in Mexico City; while Judith Nagel, Park Ridge, Ill., will be associated with New York University's program at the University of Madrid.

Gary Blumenshine, Wheaton, Ill., will divide the year between the University of San Francisco's program at Palma de Mallorca and Valencia, Spain, and the Goethe Institute in Berlin.

Four Lawrentians are planning to study abroad for one term in the coming year: James Eggert, Ann Arbor, Mich., who will spend the second term at the Institut de Touraine at Tours, France; and Mary Sheffy, Luxemburg; Bruce Dickson, Park Ridge, Ill.; and Stephen White, Boston, Mass., all of whom will take part in the Associated Colleges of the Midwest program in Costa Rica.

A half-dozen seniors have accepted jobs that will take them abroad. Polly Novak, Park Ridge, Ill., and Linda Axelson, Evanston, Ill., will serve as graduate assistants next year at Cuttington College in Liberia, part of a program of educational assistance extended by the Associated Colleges of the Midwest.

Four Lawrentians have received acceptances for Peace Corps training: Richard Goldsmith, Chicago, who has tentatively been assigned to UCLA for training in secondary education for Ethiopia; Jon Knopp, Milwaukee, who will be trained for an educational assignment in Malaya; Diane Lofka, Evergreen Park, Ill., who expects to be sent to Colombia; and Susan Fey, Wisconsin Rapids, who will be trained for a post in Somalia. Her training will not begin until January, 1965.

Richard Lampert, West Point, N.Y., will join a program of the Episcopal church that is expected to take him to Puerto Rico.

Clinical Progress Report:

Longer Lasting Medication for Painless Home Treatment of Hemorrhoids

M.P.O. combines fast-acting ingredients in a prescription-type formula to relieve pain and itch—shrink piles.

Doctors have reported "We are quite pleased with the results." In recent clinical tests of Mentholum M.P.O., results were good to excellent for 25 out of 30 patients.

Relief starts in seconds—M.P.O. contains more medically accepted pain-relieving ingredients than the leading hemorrhoid preparation. And M.P.O. is homogenized for faster absorption of its relieving medication. The instant you apply M.P.O., its anesthetic (Benzocaine) and vasoconstrictor (Ephedrine Sulfate) start to work.

M.P.O. is available in stainless ointment or suppository form.

to relieve pain, stop embarrassing itching and promote shrinking.

Longer lasting relief—because M.P.O.'s formula has an exclusive stabilized base, the medication is concentrated on the inflamed tissue to keep on working. And it includes Hexachlorophene, the famous germ killer, to relieve bacteria-caused itching and fight possible infection.

Get Mentholum M.P.O. today. Sold without prescription at all drug counters.

CD Director Asks for More Shelter Space

Tells Appleton Board Room Available
For Only 20,000

Provision for fall-out shelter space in all new school buildings was asked of the Appleton Board of Education Monday.

Lee Penny, Outagamie County City of Appleton Civil Defense Director, made the request. "Wearing my 'city hat,'" Penny told the board that so far shelter space for only about 20,000 of Appleton's approximately 60,000 population had been found.

This is inadequate, of course, Penny said. He said schools, if properly designed, made excellent fallout shelters because of their locations in residential areas and because of the presence of "responsible, competent public officials" in the form of teachers.

Shelters can be designed in schools with little or no cost, the civil defense director said. He passed out to board members a booklet of school designs compiled by the U.S. Department of Defense.

He also mentioned that under a recent state law, all new buildings constructed with public funds must provide for shelter.

When accepting designs of new buildings, Penny asked the board to ask themselves two questions:

Two Questions
—"How much shelter space will there be?"
—"How much more could we have and at what cost?"

Penny estimated this cost might be considerably less than 1 per cent of the total cost of construction. In this respect, he urged the board to support a proposed federal shelter incentive bill which would give financial aid in shelter-building programs.

The public schools can now accommodate about 800 persons. Other schools are to be surveyed sometime in the next eight months, but Penny said this number was "a drop in the bucket" in terms of total need.

Appoint Attorneys for Appleton Men Charged With Sex Offenses

Attorneys were appointed Monday to represent three Appleton brothers, charged with having sex relations with a 16-year-old Oshkosh girl.

The men, Earl Griswold, 28, and Garrit Griswold, 39, both of 407 N. Bennett St., and Ronald Griswold, 18, 1224 N. Summit St., are being held for hearing Friday on $2,000 bond. The three appeared Monday in Outagamie County Court Branch 2.

Appleton police said the alleged incident occurred June 4 after the girl had been brought to Appleton from Oshkosh. All three men were found to be indigent by County Judge Gustave Keller.

Aided in Rescue

MENASHA — Persons who aided in the rescue of Walter Mielke, 538 N. State St., Appleton, from the Fox River at Jefferson Park Sunday were Raymond and Robert Bodway, both of Appleton. Raymond was seized by a cramp during the effort rescue and Mrs. Audrey Krull, 713 Warsaw St., Menasha, jumped into the water and saved a life preserver under Mielke's chin before two men in a passing boat helped bring Mielke to shore.

Mill Shutdown Periods May be Thing of Past

Most Corporations
Staggering Summer Vacation This Year

Summer vacation shutdowns may be becoming a thing of the past as 10 of 17 major Fox Cities mills will have staggered vacations for their employees this year.

Two companies are discontinuing their shutdown policies for the first time this summer. They are Tuttle Press Co. and Combined Locks Paper Co. Combined Locks has given its employees the week of July 4 off to previous years. Machine repairs will be made at Combined Locks during the summer.

Start June 28
Many shutdowns will begin during the week of June 28. Fox River Paper Corp. will start its shutdown then, and the vacation will end July 13. Limited crews will be working on finishing and shipping, while maintenance and installation work also will be done.

The Atlas Mill of Kimberly-Clark Corp. will be closed from June 27 to July 6. Major repair work will be done on the machines during this time.

K-C's Kimberly plant and Vulcan Power House in Appleton will be done on machines.

Opinions Sought On Desirable Bridge Heights

MENASHA — Organizations, officials and interested parties throughout the Fox River Valley have been invited to submit objections, comments or suggestions on a study by the State Highway Commission to establish a policy of 25 feet minimum vertical clearance above standard low water for all new bridges.

The commission announced Friday it and the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers will conduct a study which might lead to lowering the height requirements on bridges.

Persons interested in the study and wishing to express an opinion may do so by contacting John C. Mattina, U. S. Army Engineer District, Chicago Corps of Engineers, 536 S. Clark Street, Chicago, Ill.

Any suggestions or objections must be in by June 30.

Menasha Police To Crack Down On Pupil Hazing

'Initiation' Incidents
Have Been Illegal;
Parents Accountable

MENASHA — Police officials today announced a city-wide crackdown hazing of students following a report of a young girl being thrown into the Menasha canal off Jefferson Park and possibly injured.

Chief Lester Clark said any youths found involved in initiations or hazing will be arrested and turned over to juvenile authorities.

Hazing is prohibited under the criminal section of the Wisconsin State Statutes.

Prohibited by Schools
Although initiations and hazing are prohibited in Menasha schools, many students take matters into their own hands and initiate students into upper grades. This usually is eighth graders scheduled to enter freshman classes.

One particular form of hazing to which police promise a crackdown is the practice of throwing students into the canals. The unfortunate student usually is given no chance to remove wristwatches or other items which would be ruined by water and in some cases have on formal clothing which is ruined.

Thrown Into Canal
A freshman girl who was thrown into the canal at Jefferson Park Sunday was seized by a cramp during the effort rescue and Mrs. Audrey Krull, 713 Warsaw St., Menasha, jumped into the water and saved a life preserver under Mielke's chin before two men in a passing boat helped bring Mielke to shore.

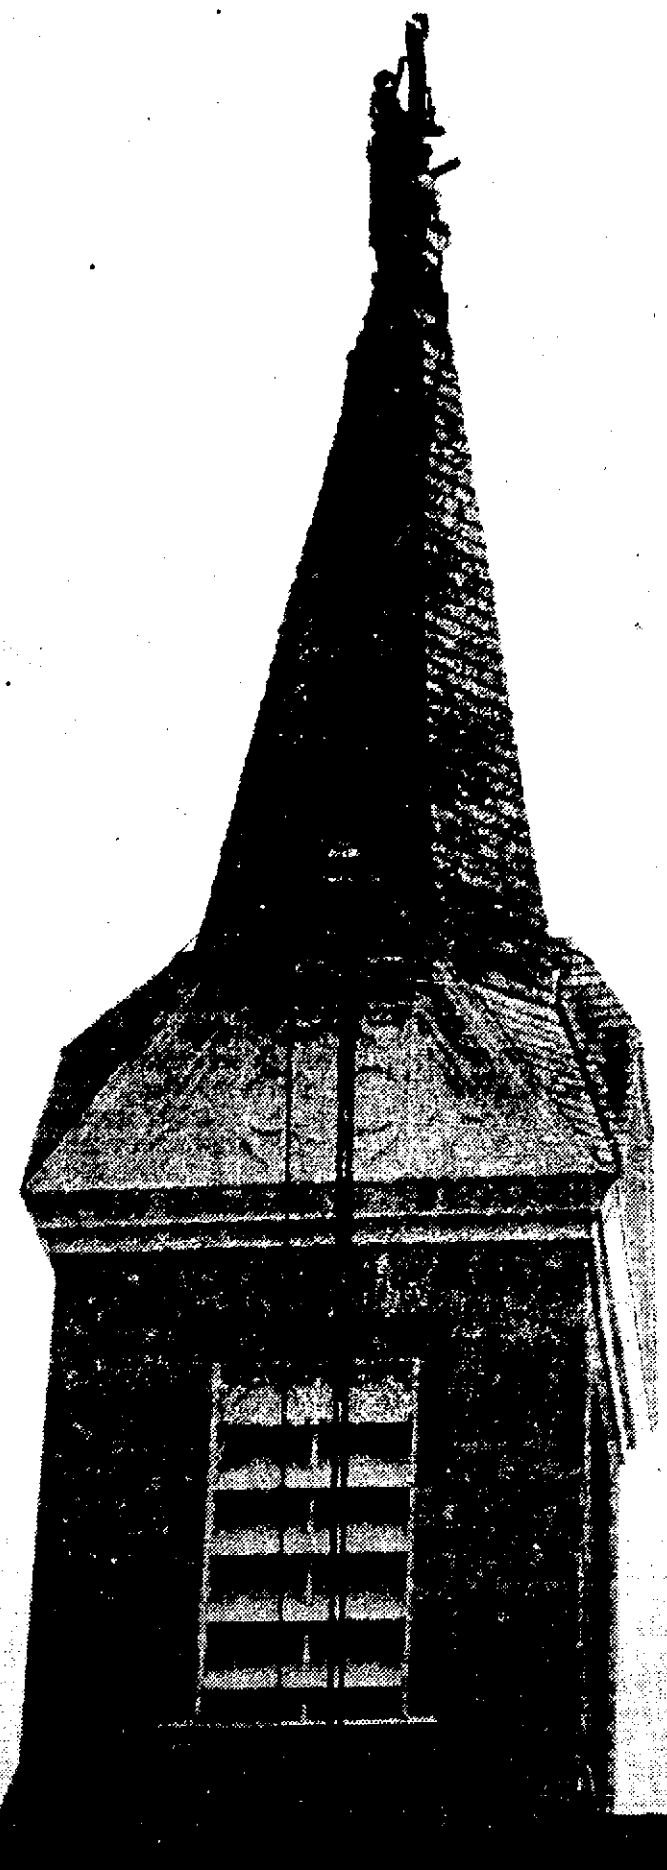

Police asked residents to assist in stopping the hazing by reporting any activities they witness.

Police said parents of youngsters involved in hazing will be held responsible for their acts. Hazing is reported "pretty common" in the city although not condoned.

Waupaca Girl Injured
When Car Strikes Tree

Miss Deanna Johnson, 18, 502 Jefferson St., Waupaca, received minor injuries when the car she was driving went out of control, sideswiped three trees and crashed head-on into a fourth tree. The accident occurred about 7 a.m. on U.S. 10. The driver was taken to her home after the accident.

Third Phase of Massive Traffic Survey Entered

WERB Hearing Is Postponed

Union Dues Checkoff
Reinstatement Could Be Reason for Delay

The Wisconsin Employment Relations Board (WERB) has postponed indefinitely a hearing into union charges that the City of Appleton committed an unfair labor practice during 1964 contract negotiations.

City Atty. Frederick Froehlich was notified of the postponement this morning.

The hearing into the charge, pressed by Teamsters Local 563, was scheduled to start at city hall Wednesday at 10 a.m.

It is believed the city's recent action of reinstating the union dues checkoff accounted for the postponement.

Discontinued in April
The union claimed the city was guilty of an unfair labor practice when it discontinued the dues checkoff in April.

There is the possibility the charge may eventually be withdrawn, thus eliminating the need for a hearing.

It was indicated today that the union is waiting for the city to actually resume the dues checkoff before advising its legal counsel to withdraw the charge.

In the near future the city and union will initiate fact-finding under supervision of the WERB in hopes of working out residents to participate in a 1964 contract agreement.

seeking information, and a hand count of vehicles crossing bridges.

The three phases will be combined and compared so as to get an accurate finding on traffic on the 11 bridges.

Cards Still Arrive
State district highway engineer Leroy Empey this morning said survey cards are still arriving at his Green Bay office. Close to 60,000 have been delivered to the office and several thousand remain in the post offices. The count will run between 80,000 and 100,000.

However, Empey said many of the cards will be rejected because of unclear information.

Cards will be separated into three categories: those which are absolutely clear; those which are questionable and those which are absolute rejects. The questionable cards will again go through a survey and be divided into usable and rejects.

Empey said he is still checking to firmly determine whether the survey set a nation-wide record. He feels it has.

Catholic Priest
To be Speaker at United Church

KAUKAUNA — The Rev. Orville Janssen, editor of the "Green Bay Register," will speak on "Roman Catholicism and the Vatican Council," at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the Immanuel United Church of Christ. The program was arranged by the Adult Fellowship Planning Committee of the Immanuel United Church and an invitation and union will initiate fact-finding under supervision of the WERB in hopes of working out residents to participate in a 1964 contract agreement.

Last month the CAB decided to review a Feb. 19 finding by examiner Edward T. Stodola that:

Appleton-Oshkosh

1. The Appleton-Oshkosh complex of communities in Wisconsin should receive scheduled air service through a new airport near Neenah, Wis.
2. Unless Outagamie and Winnebago counties agree on a new airport near Neenah, they should continue to receive airline service at their own airports except that Appleton's service would be transferred to the proposed new Outagamie County airport near Greenville.
3. The central Wisconsin cities of Wausau, Stevens Point, Marshfield and Wisconsin Rapids should be served through a new regional airport near Mosinee, Wis. Pending its development, Wisconsin Rapids and Stevens Point should continue to receive service through the Stevens Point airport, and Marshfield and Wausau through the Wausau airport.
4. North Central airlines should continue to serve Green Bay, Clintonville, La Crosse, Rhinelander, Land O'Lakes and Ashland, Wis., and Ironwood, Mich., and Winona, Minn., through their home airports. Decision has been stayed. Parties to the proceeding must file their briefs by next Friday.

they felt should be the educational goals of the Appleton schools.

View Whole Program

The chart form, said Miss Lois Smith, School Elementary Language Arts Coordinator, who is an ex officio member on each of the subcommittees, was adopted so the teacher could view the program as whole — not only in terms of his particular concern.

Breaking down the sequence into four basic goals — reading, writing, listening and speaking — the committee began its work first in determining goals, and decided to leave selection of materials until last.

It was in this way that the subcommittee on handwriting and spelling moved in deciding what texts should be used.

Each general goal is broken down into several — in some cases, many — areas dealing with what the committee felt should be specific aims of Appleton educational sequence.

Members on each subcommittee include teachers from all levels. This, Miss Smith said, was done to insure that the program could be studied as a sequence from kindergarten through high school.

The study is expected to take at least three more years, Assistant Superintendent of Schools William Spears, who is in charge of curriculum said. Work was concentrated on handwriting and spelling this year because these areas were considered as basic to the entire communication arts programs.

In making its decision, the handwriting and spelling subcommittee worked with professionals from the University of Wisconsin, University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee and the State Department of Public Instruction.

Consultants from the two book publishers are expected to come into the schools after six weeks next fall to assist teachers with any questions they might have about the new program.

of their potential heavy use by at least three teachers each.

New Sketches

The board asked LeVe to provide a new set of sketches incorporating the revisions because they felt they could not give approval to the project until they had time to study the total structure.

LeVe said these could be prepared within two weeks. If approved, the architects will be able to begin final working drawings—a five or six-month project. Any delay at this point, LeVe said will push back the date for advertising for bids.

The board had hoped it would be ready to advertise for bids in the fall.

If working drawings are begun without a final decision on the size of the auditorium, it may necessitate a duplicate set of working drawings showing the two possibilities, he said.

sion from the Public Service Commission to extend an additional 12-inch water main into the park area.

"Speaking for the city government, we are pleased to see Tuttle Press expand in our industrial park," Mitchell declared.

"It has been a pleasure working with company officials in planning the project," Mitchell added.

He said the City of Appleton would continue to cooperate with Tuttle Press and any other firms — old or new — wishing to build or relocate in the industrial area.

'Significant Breakthrough'

"Construction of this plant by Tuttle Press represents a significant breakthrough and we are looking forward to more activity," Mitchell said.

For some time, city officials have felt that once a major factory was constructed in the industrial area it would spark additional building. This is usually the pattern for these type developments.

Richard C. Van Sistine, president of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce, had praise for the industrial expansion project.

"We are pleased that one of Appleton's oldest firms — Tuttle Press — has the confidence in our community to expand in its excellent industrial park," Van Sistine said.

Mitchell and Van Sistine visited the construction site this morning with company officials

Fox Valley Steamboat Captain Dies

Paul LeFevre Commanded Boats On Fox, Wolf Rivers

SHAWANO — The man who more than any other symbolized the glamorous era of steamboating on the Fox and Wolf rivers died here at 6:30 p.m. Monday at the age of 85.

Paul LeFevre, a steamboat captain from 1900 until his retirement in 1952, succumbed at his Shawano Lake home following a long illness.

Born Nov. 27, 1878, in Eureka,

Capt. Paul LeFevre

he moved with his family to Tustin at the age of six months. His steamboating career began in 1893, when, at 15, he started work as a cabin boy and errand boy on the John Lynch, then owned by the Clark and LeFevre Shipping Co., of which his father, Wallace W. LeFevre, was a partner.

"By the time I was 17 or 18 I knew all the routes and channels and was determined to be a steamboat captain one day," he told an interviewer many years later.

Captain's License

In 1900, after seven years of experience, LeFevre was awarded a captain's license and assigned to command the Lynch, a stern-wheeler carrying passengers and freight between Oshkosh and Tustin. LeFevre's association with the Lynch came to an abrupt and spectacular end the morning of May 2, 1902, when the steamboat—loaded with baled hay bound for the Deltox Rug Co., Oshkosh—was destroyed by fire as she sailed out of the mouth of the Wolf River into Lake Poygan.

Fortunately, no lives were lost in the blaze, and LeFevre was immediately assigned to the steamboat LeFevre, so that service could be resumed.

The LeFevre, which he termed "the fastest boat on the Fox or Wolf river," was once clocked from the Winneconne bridge to the Oshkosh Main Street bridge in 58 minutes.

Oshkosh-Tustin Run Six months later, when the LeFevre was sold, Paul LeFevre became the captain of the Fashion, which filled in on the Oshkosh-Tustin run until 1907, the year the newly completed Paul L. went into service.

LeFevre was the only captain the Paul L. ever had, and served in that capacity for 13 years. A replica of the Paul L. was constructed in 1963, and is operated by an Oshkosh brewing company.

In 1920 LeFevre's father died unexpectedly, and his partner Charles R. Clark decided not to continue in the business. LeFevre then went to work as one of the captains of the George D. Ryan, an Oshkosh tug, and in 1922 took command of the Valley Queen, last of the Mississippi style showboats to cruise the waters of the Valley.

Burned Mysteriously

The Valley Queen burned mysteriously at anchor in Oshkosh

in the fall of 1922, and LeFevre returned to his job as tugboat captain for Kimberly - Clark Corp and Thilmany Pulp and Paper Co.

In 1924 he moved to Chicago, where he commanded harbor tugs until his retirement in December, 1952. He and his wife had lived at their Shawano Lake address since that time. LeFevre is survived by his wife and one daughter, Mrs. Virginia Edwards, Elm Grove, Ill. A second cousin, Mitchell Gorrow, lives at 1119 E. Nevada, Appleton.

Funeral services for Paul LeFevre will be held at 12 noon Thursday at Shawano.

Word Game for Party Play
Keyed to Names of Players

BY CAPPY DICK

The word game described as today's fun-project is intended for play at a party.

In preparation, rule up a supply of forms like that shown in Figure 1, but without the names and words in the columns. Simply head up each column as shown and leave the other spaces blank. You will must state his first name and each player must print all the names (including his own) in the left-hand column as in Figure 1.

Explain that the object of the game is to see who can make three words out of the letters in each name. In Figure 1 the names happen to have letters that can be formed into three words. However, other names may prove to be difficult, adding fun to the game.

In any case, set a time limit, such as five minutes. At that point stop the players, collect the papers and score them. For each correct word, a player receives one point. If there are six players, meaning that six names are used, and a player forms three words from each he will win 8 points.

CHILDREN GET ALONG BEST WHEN GIVEN COMPLETE FREEDOM! TRUE ☐ FALSE ☐

Does college educate girls away from motherhood? Your opinion —

You may feel that too much education makes a girl dissatisfied with her role as a wife and mother. Yet, studies of recent graduates of an eastern women's college found that 97 per cent of the girls had married, usually within three years of their graduation. Practically nine out of 10 had planned their families and had enjoyed their pregnancies. Fully 70 per cent of these college had breast-fed their babies from one to nine months. Only 10 per cent had ever felt martyred as mothers.

Mixed Trend In Share Prices

Moderate Trading Volume During Early Afternoon

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market improved selectively, showing a mixed pattern early this afternoon. Trading was moderate.

The list canceled an early decline as many stocks recovered cautiously from losses of recent sessions.

Gains and losses of most key stocks were kept within a 1-point range.

Some of the higher-priced, more volatile issues tacked on 2 points or more.

Airlines, chemicals, rubbers, motors and electronics showed a generally higher trend, but it was very mild. Steels, rails, tobacco, farm implements and aerospace issues were mixed. Electrical equipments declined slightly.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was unchanged at 300.4 with Industrials up .1, rails off .2 and utilities unchanged.

The Dow Jones industrial average was up .54 at 800.85.

Texas Gulf Sulphur rebounded a point in early trading from its 6 1/2-point loss of Monday, but it erased the recovery in later dealings and eased.

Up about 2 points were IBM, Polaroid and Xerox.

Gains of a point or so were made by Du Pont, Control Data and Time Inc.

Prices were mixed on the American Stock Exchange.

Reynolds Adds to Urging for Civil Rights Action

CLEVELAND (AP) — Wisconsin Democratic Gov. John W. Reynolds was among 26 governors listed Monday as signers of a statement calling for passage by Congress "of effective civil rights legislation."

Missouri Gov. John M. Dalton said Monday night the governors of 12 Midwestern states, including Wisconsin, will meet June 22-23 in Kansas City for an economic and industrial conference.

Earlier a dozen Midwestern states, again including Wisconsin, agreed to put more muscle into efforts to fatten their share of federal contracts and projects.

Vote Scheduled In Michigan Factory Strike

Remney Warns Settlement Vital Interest to Public

HILLSDALE, Mich. (AP) — Workers at the strife-torn Essex Wire Corp. were to hold a back-to-work vote this afternoon after a warning from Gov. George W. Romney that settlement of the 102-day-old, violence-ridden strike is of vital interest to the public.

Officials of Essex and of the International Union of Electrical Workers, AFL-CIO, expressed optimism that the 180 strikers would approve the modified agreement worked out Monday at a six-hour meeting with federal and state mediators in Detroit.

Personal Appeal

Gov. Romney made a personal appeal to the disputants to "remember that the public interest is of greater importance than that of either party."

Frank Gallucci, vice president and legal representative of Essex, and Robert Klingensmith, administrative aide to IUE President James Carey, expressed confidence the modified agreement would be accepted at the mid-afternoon voting session today.

Gov. Romney, Carey and top officials of Essex hammered out broad outlines of a proposed new contract at an all-night session in the governor's office in Lansing last Saturday. Members of the striking IUE Local 810 at Hillsdale decided Sunday not to take a ratification vote, pending clarification of issues, and sent the pact back to the local's bargaining committee.

Part of Problem

Gallucci said, "Part of the problem was that the union local membership was asked to absorb in a three- or four-hour meeting all the details that we had worked out with the union in more than seven months of bargaining."

Some 200 Michigan National Guardsmen and about 60 Michigan state police troopers patrolled at the strike-bound plant, scene of picket-line disorders and outbreaks of violence during the long strike.

Gallucci said the offer was a four-year pact which would give workers an estimated 33 cents increase over the $2.47 an hour he said production workers now average.

Health Pay Applications Accepted July 1

175,000 Expected To Qualify Under Kerr-Mills Act

MADISON (AP)—Applications for health assistance payments to Wisconsin's elderly under the Kerr-Mills Act will be accepted by counties starting July 1, State Welfare Department Director Wilbur Schmidt said Monday.

An estimated 175,000 of the state's 420,000 residents over the age of 65 are expected to qualify for participation in the program. The 1963 Legislature approved Wisconsin's entry into the federal program, estimated to cost $10 million a year with the federal government paying $5.3 million of the total.

Schmidt said applications would be accepted by county departments of public welfare and benefits will be payable for health care received on or after July 1.

Wisconsin residents eligible for the program are those who have reached the age of 65 but do not receive old age assistance and do not have personal assets in excess of $5,500 if single and $9,000 if married.

A home, household effects and personal possessions, including an automobile are exempt from personal assets classification.

Also, an applicant must not have an annual income of more than $1,800 if single or $2,700 if married.

Benefits include up to 45 days hospitalization per illness and physician's or surgeon's services in a hospital or nursing home.

Man Forces Son To Shoot Him in Suicide Attempt

LOS ANGELES (AP)—In the climax to a series of bitter quarrels, Leonard Thierry's wife left him.

Police said that Thierry then awakened his three small children.

He showed Theresa, 7, a pistol and told her to shoot him. She refused.

He told Gary, 5, how to work the pistol and told him to shoot. He refused.

Then he put the pistol in the hands of Glen, 4. He, too, refused.

Thierry told him if he didn't, he'd "get the leather strap." Glen pulled the trigger.

Thierry, a 32-year-old baker, was taken to General Hospital in critical condition Monday morning, a bullet in his brain.

"I had to do it," said Glen. "He told me he'd get the belt and spank me if I didn't."

Police said Thierry and his wife, Mary, 26, had had many arguments in their eight years of marriage. Officers located care.

Now Has 671

Johnson Sought Democratic Delegate Strength Quietly

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has been quietly piling up Democratic delegate votes while the political spotlight focused on the Republican presidential nomination race. He already has more than half the number needed for his expected nomination.

The President now has 671 first-ballot votes stemming from primaries, state convention actions or personally stated preference, an Associated Press survey showed today.

This is about 58 per cent of the 1,158½ votes required for the nomination at the Democratic convention in Atlantic City in August.

Little Doubt

There has been little doubt that Johnson—although he has not yet announced his candidacy—will win the nomination on the first ballot, perhaps by acclamation.

The only avowed candidate, Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama, has 38 first-ballot votes—all from Alabama. He might draw scattered support from other Southern delegations which so far have listed themselves as uncommitted. These include South Carolina and Louisiana. The Mississippi delegation has not been chosen yet.

More Delegates

Unlike the Republicans, who follow a one-man, one-vote policy, the Democrats will have many more delegates than the 2,316 votes authorized for their convention. Some delegates will have one-half of a vote and in a few cases they'll have one-third of a vote.

Besides the 671 votes already committed to him, Johnson is expected to pick up 244 votes from four states in which stand-in candidates won presidential primaries. They are Ohio, Indiana, Maryland and Wisconsin.

There are 621 votes in the hands of delegates who so far list themselves as technically uncommitted. Almost all are expected to vote for Johnson.

In all, delegates to cast 1,574 of the 2,316 convention votes have been selected.

Bomber Command Training Crews at Clark Air Force Base

MANILA (AP) — A U.S. Air Force spokesman said today that B57 jet bombers and crews are training at Clark Air Base north of Manila for all contingencies but have been given no specific targets.

The spokesman was commenting on a New York Herald Tribune report that a combat force of B57s is training in the Philippines to bomb targets in Communist North Viet Nam.

The newspaper report said about 50 B57s are assigned to the U.S. Air Force's 3rd Bomb Wing, stationed temporarily at Clark.

Less Fat in Diet Suggested for All

NEW YORK (AP) — Everybody, not just overweight persons and those who've had heart disease, should eat less fatty food, the American Heart Association says.

The organization widened Monday its recommendation of three years ago because, it said, of mounting evidence of a relation between fat consumed, cholesterol in the blood and heart disease.

Alabama University Has 3 Negro Women In Summer Session

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP)—Segregation barriers at the University of Alabama, where Gov. George C. Wallace staged his brief "schoolhouse door" stand last year, have been lowered further.

The school now has three Negro women registered for summer session classes. Vivian Malone of Mobile, one of the two Negroes admitted under federal court order in June 1963, has been joined by Ruth Benella Lewis of Birmingham and Velma Thompson, a Tuscaloosa high school teacher.

Mrs. Lewis and Mrs. Thompson are taking graduate work.

Attorneys Begin 2 Million Libel Suit Against AP

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Attorneys for former Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker begin presenting evidence today in his $2-million libel suit against The Associated Press.

A jury of four women and eight men was selected Monday, clearing the way for presentation of evidence by the plaintiff. All 12 jurors must agree to any verdict returned to State District Court Judge Charles J. Murray in the civil suit.

The Associated Press, as defendant, will present its evidence after the plaintiff.

Walker, 54, contends Associated Press stories falsely accused him of leading a charge during the 1962 civil rights riot at the University of Mississippi, in Oxford, Miss. Walker's chief attorney, Clyde Watts, Oklahoma City, said in his opening statement that Walker did not lead any charge, and did not assume command of the riot crowd.

Foxes Lose, 7-4, Will Meet Quincy in Twin Bill Tonight

62-Acre Tract On Winnebago Imposing

BROTHERTOWN — The Chicago White Sox Monday unveiled their new $200,000-plus Boys Camp to the press Monday, and the project proved as imposing as Lake Winnebago's breezes were refreshing.

All the chief White Sox brass — including President Arthur Allyn, general manager Ed Short, field manager Al Lopez and farm director Glen Miller — played host for the open house.

Allyn emphasized to newsmen that this is not strictly a baseball camp — but rather that 13 activities in addition to baseball are available for boys 10 to 16 years of age.

"The increased awareness of the importance of physical fitness and the boundless energies of young boys eager to learn and develop their physical abilities are the two prime motivations for the birth of the boys camp," according to Allyn.

Allyn gave credit for originating the idea to Miller, a Kaukauna native.

Short said the well-rounded program is available to boys in the Fox Valley area as well as the entire midwest. If, in the process, good baseball prospects can be uncovered and they later show an interest in the White Sox, it will prove a dividend, Short indicated.

Officials termed registration for the first session "encouraging" but would not reveal any figures. The first of a trio of 3-week sessions will start June 28 (The cost per 3-week period is $205).

The 62-acre all-sports camp is designed to accommodate 192 boys in each session.

Instruction and participation will be offered in such major sports as baseball, basketball.

Moore Hurls Seventh Win Of Season

BY MIKE WALTER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

The Fox Cities Foxes had their batters in peak form Monday night, but 11 singles and a double produced only four runs as Decatur won the second game of the set, 7-4.

Decatur pitcher Lou Moore yielded all the Foxes' hits and gave up four walks, but he was tough with men on the bases, stranding 10 runners in winning his seventh game in eight decisions.

The Foxes meet Quincy in a doubleheader tonight. The first of two 7-inning games will begin at 7 p.m. Tim Sommer (6-0) is scheduled to pitch one of the games for the Foxes.

Dick Davey provided the big punch for the winners, stroking a 3-run homer in the second inning, enough, it turned out, for the win.

2 Big Innings

Three Foxes pitchers blanked the Commodores in six of the nine frames, but two big innings proved too burdensome.

John Matias started the Foxes off with a 1-0 lead in the opening inning, singling and scoring on Fred Rice's 2-out single. In the second, John Burrows lined a double up the left-center field alley to drive in Stan Walters, on base with a base on balls.

Two Foxes runs were plated in the third as Dave May walked and promptly stole second. He scored on Ray Wolkowski's single. After a hit-and-run by

Al Lopez Terms Former Fox Outstanding Young Hitter

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN
Post-Crescent Sports Editor

Pete Ward took a breather from the hectic American League pennant race Monday to visit the Fox Cities area for the first time since he helped the Foxes win the 3-1 League championship in 1960.

Ward, in his second year as a third-base fixture with the first-place Chicago White Sox, believes the Chisox have a good chance to play in the '64 World Series.

The Chisox' pennant ambitions will get a supreme test in the next 13 days, as they play 17 consecutive games with Baltimore's Orioles and the Yankees, the Nos. 2 and 3 teams in the league. The White Sox have played these clubs only three times altogether this season — and have lost them all, Ward points out.

Ward, called by his manager, Al Lopez, one of the best young hitters in the game, appeared at the White Sox open house at the new Boys Camp, near Brothertown, earlier in the day. He then made a number of Appleton appearances, including one at Goodland Field (site of many personal triumphs in '60) for the Foxes - Decatur game.

Better Club

Ward, who missed the early weeks of the season because of a back injury that is now cleared up, considers the '64 White Sox a better club than last year's — both in starting and reserve strength.

The young third baseman has come fast after his delayed '64 start to win a number of games with clutch hits. He already has six home runs — including the first two "grand slams" of his big-league career.

Among the toughest pitchers to bat against, according to Ward, are Camilo Pascual, Dick Radatz, Steve Barber and Dean Chance. Chance, a teammate of Ward's with the Foxes in '60, is considered by some batters as having the fastest ball in the league. Pete reports Ward has batted against Chance only twice this year and failed to hit safely — although he hit one 410 feet that was caught.

Ward has also batted against another former teammate, "Buster" Narum (of the '60

Koufax Wins 100th NL Game, Beats Reds, 2-1; Twins Lose to Detroit

Senators' King Hits 3 Homers In Loss to A's

BY HAL BOCK

Not this time, Sandy. Sandy Koufax, the Los Angeles Dodger left-hander who makes a habit of being stingy with base hits, took a swipe at a second straight no-hitter Monday night and for four innings of a 2-1 Dodger victory over Cincinnati, he had statisticians scrambling for their record books.

Koufax retired the first 12 Reds he faced but No. 13, Deron Johnson, broke the spell with a home run. With the pressure off, Koufax gave up three more hits en route to his 100th career victory.

Scored Tying Run

Sandy, whose third no-hitter came against Philadelphia last week, scored the tying run in the fifth when he forced Dick Tracewski who had walked, moved up on Maury Wills' single and scored on Willie Davis' hit.

John Roseboro doubled home Tommy Davis with two out in the sixth to win it.

The only pitcher ever to put together back-to-back no-hitters was Johnny VanderMeer, who did it in 1938.

And, interestingly, VanderMeer hurled for the Reds and pitched his second no-hitter against the Dodgers.

But, don't despair, Sandy. There's always next time.

Braves Stop Colt Rally to Win, 5-3

Hoeft Saves Game in Ninth for Cloninger; Clubs Play 2 Tonight

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves, who labor fruitlessly in their own ball park, apparently have found a home on the range.

The Braves squeezed back into the first division Monday night with a 5-3 victory over the Houston Colts. A two-run homer by Hank Aaron in the first inning got the Braves onto the victory trail, and some clutch last-inning relief pitching by Billy Hoeft kept them there.

Trail by 5

With the conquest, the Braves pulled into a fifth-place tie with the St. Louis Cardinals, five games off the pace.

Milwaukee starter Tony Cloninger had held the Colts to a single run and seven hits going into the ninth Houston first baseman Archie Roberts of the inning with his third home second double, and scored single by John Bateman.

Cloninger went to the sl and Jack Smith went to mound, but not for long. Eddie Kasko and Rusty Staub went to the for reliever Don Larson, followed Cloninger to the house.

Hoeft got Staub to hit force out before Al Spangling singled Kasko home. After Nellie Fox to fly out, loaded the bases by Willie Mike White.

Hoeft worked carefully long-hitting Walt Bond, run the count to 3 and 2 before Gene Oliver at first.

The Colts had scored first run in the third on gle by Spangler.

The victory went to Cloninger who is now 4 and 5. Colt's Hal "Skinny" Brown took sixth defeat against a singlory. The triumph gave Braves a 4 to 3 edge over Colts so far in the season. It was Milwaukee's third victory in four games here.

Aaron Homers

The Braves got off to a start as Felipe Alou opened game with a double and an out scored on Aaron's ninth homer, a blast deep the seats in left-center.

Milwaukee added another the fifth on Cloninger's s. He scored all the way first when right fielder booted a drive by Lee Ma. The Braves closed the

Minnesota, Maine '9s' Post Tourney Victories

Last Two Games Incomplete Because Of Rainstorm

OMAHA (AP)—Maine's sophomores, led by a coach who did not want a scouting report, provided the upset and Minnesota started in its customary election year style in the rain-shortened first round of the college baseball world series Monday.

Maine was playing most of the hitters to pull in its 5-1 victory that ended a 13-game Seton Hall winning streak. But Coach Jack Butterfield said he was planning with rookie Joe Ferris in mind.

Menasha Trips Appleton East

Twins Muster Nine Runs in First Three Frames

MENASHA — Menasha scored nine runs in the first three innings and went on to best Appleton East 10-5, in a non-league game Monday night.

Appleton led off with four runs in the top of the first but the Twins came back with five in their half of the frame. They added four in the third and closed with one in the fifth — Stan Ostrowski's homer. Appleton concluded with an unearned marker in the seventh.

Appleton's first included a triple by Bob Grishaber and singles by Mark Pepper, Gene Jack, Mike De Young and Jack Herb.

Mike Staniak's single followed by Mike LeRoy's homer, a walk, Mark Pawlowski's double, a single by Dave Birling and an error gave Menasha its five. Two walks, singles by Birling, Terry Haack and Stanlak and Mike Vindhurst's double resulted in four more in the third.

A 2-base outfield error, a stolen base and an infield out produced the final Appleton marker.

Vindhurst, Ostrowski and Tom Schoen all worked three innings on the mound for Menasha. Dick Thiel, Bob Filz, Jim Gregorius and Ken Schroeder all hurled for Appleton.

Koufax Hurls Dodgers Past Cincinnati

George Alusik wrapped up the rally with a two-run homer. Moe Drabowsky got the victory, his first since April 25, and snapped a seven-game losing streak.

Homers in 8th Wagner, who brought his RBI total to 46, and Bob Chance hit back-to-back homers in the eighth after singles by Joe Azcue and Dick Howser around a sacrifice had provided the tying run for the Indians. Chance's homer was his fourth in four games.

The Angels had taken a 3-2 lead in the seventh, chasing rookie Sonny Siebert, who had a four-hit shutout through six innings.

Don Demeter hit a homer for the Tigers in the first. Then, after the Twins tied it 2-2, Norm Cash hit a three-run shot in the third and put Detroit ahead to stay.

Dave Wickersham, tagged for Harmon Killebrew's 16th homer, won his seventh game after falling on three previous tries, but needed Larry Sherry's relief help.

FOX TALES: The attendance of 1,025 included 305 knotholders admitted for a nickel apiece. Mickey Vandehey, of Auburn, and Pete Ward each took batting practice with the Foxes before the contest. Vandehey hit one drive over the fence, but Ward failed to sock one out of the park. Huntz' three errors certainly contributed little to the Foxes' defense, but the scrappy shortstop made a dazzling over-the-shoulder catch of a Texas leaguer in short left field in the third inning—after the Commodores already had scored three runs in the frame. Stan Walters now has hit safely in his last 12 games, tops for a Fox this season. John Matias previously had connected for 11. Doubleheaders are scheduled for 7 p.m. tonight and Wednesday against Quincy at Goodland Field.

Yanks Edge Denver Club In Ninth

DENVER (AP) — The city's largest baseball crowd ever, 25,832, saw Joe Pepitone smash a homer in the ninth inning to give the New York Yankees a 7-5 exhibition victory over the Denver Bears of the Pacific Coast League Monday night.

Pepitone, first man up in the inning, socked a 3-2 pitch into the right center field stands. The Yanks got an insurance run on John Blanchard's triple and Hector Lopez' sacrifice fly.

The 425-foot smash by Pepitone was a heartbreaker for Denver pitcher Jay Hook, who had a five-hitter going into the eighth inning and a 5-4 lead. Pedro Gonzales tied the game for the Yanks in that frame with a homer.

Fred Hutchinson Gets Checkup, Rejoins Team

SEATTLE (AP)—Fred Hutchinson, manager of the Cincinnati Reds, was given a checkup of a cancerous growth in his chest Monday and headed for Los Angeles today to join his team.

Just before the examination, he said the outcome of the examination would decide whether he could rejoin the Reds or had to stay in Seattle a while.

He said he felt about the same as he did after receiving massive radiation treatment for six weeks early this year in Swedish Hospital's Tumor Institute in Seattle.

Dr. Orless Wildermuth, head of the Tumor Institute, said he considered Fred's examination a routine checkup.

Finley Shells Out $75,000 to 'Catfish'

Athletics Owner Signs Hurler; Indians Ink Gagliano's Brother

Charles Finley has bought a Catfish for $75,000.

But then last week he paid the same amount for a Blue Moon. No, the owner of the Kansas City Athletics isn't about to spring some more gimmicks on the American League, he's merely indulging in baseball's battle of the dollar for the nation's top young prospects.

James (Catfish) Hunter, an 18-year-old pitcher from Hartford, N.C., was Finley's latest addition to his growing list of bonus babies. Last week, the A's signed another pitcher for a bonus in the $75,000 area, Johnny Lee (Blue Moon) Odum, a 19-year-old from Macon, Ga.

Hunter was one of nine hopefuls signed by major league clubs Monday as the tempo began to build toward the usual series of $100,000 signings that follow college graduations in June.

Five Shutouts Hunter, a 6-foot-1, 190-pound right-hander, pitched five shutouts in the past two seasons with the Pergumans County High School team. In one 12-inning game this spring he jinxed out 29 batters. He has an over-all record of 26-2.

At the same time, the Cleveland Indians paid a reported $80,000 for infielder Ralph Michael Gagliano of Memphis, 17-year-old brother of Phil Gagliano, an infielder with the St. Louis Cardinals. The Indians said the younger Gagliano had been sought by 17 major league clubs.

The New York Mets got the most, possibly for the least. Given modest outlays were Gary Haverly, a shortstop who graduated from Pittsburgh State, Kan.; second baseman Dave Miller, out of Wake Forest; infielder Francis Raley, from Baltimore Junior College, and two pitchers, Ron Taylor, University of Houston, and James Bethke, Kansas City.

Braves Acquire Catcher No. 6, Merritt Ranew

Complete Deal With Cubs for Len Gabrielson

HOUSTON (AP)—If National League pennants were awarded for bulging catching stiffs, the Milwaukee Braves could start selling World Series tickets.

As the Braves defeated the Houston Colts 5-3 Monday night, they could count six players qualified to catch.

The latest to join the ranks is Merritt Ranew, who is really re-joining because he started his major league career with Milwaukee in 1957.

The 26-year-old Ranew came to the Braves from the Cubs in completion of the deal that sent Len Gabrielson to Chicago for $40,000 and a player. When the Cubs wouldn't give up a relief pitcher, the Braves took Ranew, who can swing a big bat, although he is not a great defensive backstop.

"We just might give Ranew a chance to catch and get his hitting into the lineup," said Manager Bobby Bragan.

Ranew was claimed by Houston in the 1961 expansion draft and later traded to Chicago, where he hit .338 in 78 games last year before breaking his jaw. He had hit .091 for the Cubs so far this season.

Other Braves who can catch are Joe Torre, Ed Bailey, Phil Roof, Gene Oliver and Rico Carty.

The Braves also announced Monday that pitcher Dick Kelley, a left-hander, was taken off the disabled list and dispatched to Denver in the Pacific Coast League on 24-hour recall. He had been sidelined 30 days with a circulatory ailment in his right hand.

Kelley had pitched in only one game, allowing two hits and walking three while not getting anyone out.

While the Braves continued to sift and shift, Bragan indicated he felt they were still in the race.

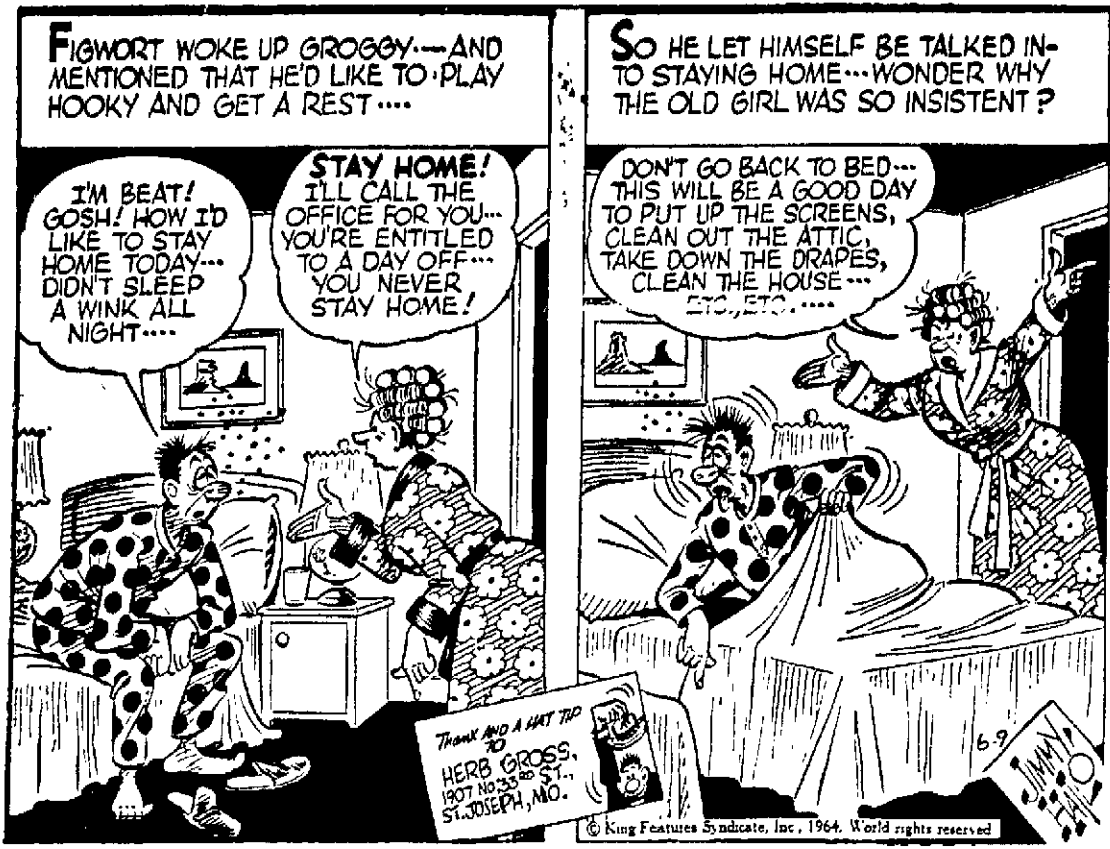

Speaking at a luncheon, he did not predict that the Braves will win, but he did point out that all the other clubs hoping for a place in the series are having problems of one kind or another.

He also defended his platooning by firing a 71-70-141 place and was ousted on the extra holes. Bob Unger of Milwaukee had a 74-77 and Tom Veech, also of Milwaukee, carded a 74-75-149.

Brue, now a professional at Northbrook, Ill., led sectional qualifiers by firing a 71-70-141 place and was ousted on the extra holes. Bob Unger of Milwaukee had a 74-77 and Tom Veech, also of Milwaukee, carded a 74-75-149.

Bar Suggests Court Change Constitution

Controversy Arises Over Decision on Prayer in Schools

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—A surprising statement has just been filed with the House Judiciary Committee by 223 lawyers, including 55 deans of law schools and several college professors, many of them of the so-called "liberal" school of thought. They have taken a stand which will be construed as meaning that, so far as possible, further amendments to the Constitution must be blocked and that the Supreme Court of the United States must be left to rewrite the Constitution at will.

The current controversy arises as a consequence of the Supreme Court's decisions which have produced widespread apprehension that the word "God" cannot be mentioned in public school exercises and that voluntary prayers may be prohibited in educational institutions or in connection with official activities of the government.

The statement warns those who have been agitating for a constitutional amendment that they are, in effect, engaging in something bordering on impropriety. Dozens of amendments, for instance, have been proposed to overrule the decisions of the Supreme Court on the subject of prayer in exercises or ceremonies in schools, but the statement of the 223 citizens asks for a kind of closure on further consideration of all such amendments by Congress. The statement says:

American Liberties

"American liberties have been secure in large measure because they have been guaranteed by a bill of rights which the American people have until now deemed practically unamendable."

This will come as a shock to many people who have always thought the Constitution could be amended whenever public opinion desired it and that there is nothing so sacred about anything in the Constitution that the people couldn't change it at will. Objection rather has been voiced against the Supreme Court's assumption of a right virtually to introduce any meaning it pleases, thus giving to an oligarchy of nine judges appointed for life the power to amend the Constitution through judicial decisions.

The recent movement to submit to the people an amendment safeguarding the right to pray grew out of a deep-seated belief that the Supreme Court had taken away a fundamental right and had indeed violated that part of the Constitution which states that there should be no interference with "the free exercise" of religion. The statement of the protesting group, however, says:

"Whatever disagreements some may have with the Bible-prayer decisions, we believe strongly that they do not justify this experiment. Accordingly, we urge that Congress approve no measures to amend the first amendment in order to overrule these decisions."

The lawyers who filed the statement have a right to their opinion and to argue against any proposed amendment to the Constitution, but it comes as a surprise to find such a learned group stating that the mere attempt to use the amending process prescribed in the Constitution is dangerous. The sponsors of this viewpoint add:

"If the first clause of the Bill of Rights, forbidding laws respecting an establishment of religion, should prove so easily susceptible to impairment by amendment, none of the succeeding clauses will be secure."

Not Justified

Such a sweeping declaration is hardly justified because, for one thing, there are more than 100 proposals for a constitutional amendment, along with the resolution submitted by Representative Frank J. Becker, Republican, of New York, in behalf of many members of Congress, all of which are merely designed to safeguard the right to pray in official surroundings.

There are many ways by which this right can be assured without imposing any established church. Just as one group respects the right of another group to hold differing opinions, there is every justification for at least tolerating voluntary prayer by another body of citizens, whether outside or inside a government building, in a public ceremony.

But entirely apart from the merits of the issue itself as it relates to the right to pray, the controversy over methods of amending the Constitution may be intensified. In 1962 the National Council of State Governments adopted a resolution proposing an additional formula. Thus, if two-thirds of the state legislatures submitted identical texts for a proposed amendment, three-fourths of the states could then ratify it without any further action by Congress.

Whether the foregoing proposal is a desirable one or not, the fact remains that many constitutional lawyers in the United States believe that, if Congress is going to block the amending process, some way must be found to enable the people themselves to initiate amendments to the federal Constitution through their own state legislatures. Biophysicist Appointed To Lawrence Staff Will Head Science Facility

Dr. Robert K. Herman, presently a post-doctoral fellow at Princeton University, has been appointed assistant professor of biophysics in the department of physics at Lawrence University in September.

Dr. Herman will set up and oversee the radiation facility in the Youngchild Hall of Science, and will help to build a program in biophysics, according to Dean Chandler W. Rowe. His appointment recognizes the increasing amount of interdisciplinary teaching in science that has gone on at Lawrence in recent years.

The biophysicist was born in Vancouver, Washington, took the B.S. in physics with great distinction from Stanford University; attended Yale as a United States Public Health Service fellow and received the Ph.D. in molecular biology and biophysics in 1962.

Since then he has been a USPHS fellow with Dr. Arthur B. Pardee, chairman of biochemical sciences group, department of biology, Princeton.

Dr. Herman is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and Sigma Xi.

Continental Youth Bands Appearing in Flag Day Parade

The Milwaukee Continental youth bands will be among the performers in next Saturday's annual Flag Day parade through Appleton.

The Continentals originally were formed in 1940 but disbanded at the outset of World War II. They were reformed in 1955 by Peter Ochs, the original founder.

Since 1955, the bands, consisting of a youth band, cadet band and cub band, have performed throughout the United States and been accorded many festival awards. Performances have included appearances at the Seattle World's Fair, the 1960 Presidential Inaugural parade and Disneyland.

Ochs also has helped form a committee of adults who aid the Continentals in finances, transportation, public relations, properties and music development.

Your Money's Worth

New Law Will Cause Much Job Juggling

BY SYLVIA PORTER

Day after tomorrow, when our first national "equal pay for equal work" law goes into effect, some employers will start breaking it immediately—either unwittingly or deliberately.

Most U. S. employers are entirely willing to comply with the new law—which represents the culmination of 19 years of congressional debate—and which simply requires employers affected to pay the same wages to women as the same wages to men for the same work in the same place where the same skills, effort and responsibility are involved.

The law applies to only about 7.5 million women workers under the wage-hour law (Fair Labor Standards Act) out of a total of 25 million of us in the labor force. During its long trek through Congress, the bill was substantially watered down to meet the complaints of businessmen, and its provisions are far from rigid.

Fraud Expected

Nevertheless, let's not kid ourselves. As Clarence T. Lundquist, of the U.S. Labor Dept., administrator of this law, put it in an interview, "With 1.1 million different business and industrial establishments affected, a factor 'other than sex' and there will almost certainly be misinterpretation, chicanery and to fit the law's requirement that equal pay must be provided for 'equal skill, effort and responsibility.' A woman prohibited this statute? As a working woman, from working overtime certainly an all my life, it is with under-standable sardonic irony that I submit 'SP's Brief Guide to Law Evasion.'"

(1) You could fire all women workers to avoid hiking their pay at extra cost to your company, or (2) you could refuse to hire any women workers and thus help keep your wage budget in line.

Womens' Jobs

(3) You could hire women only in job classifications requiring the least pay, or (4) you could hire them in any job classification, but only in different factories or offices and so get around the provision that pay standards which are archaic in 1964. They are continuing pay inequities which cannot be justified, are trying to defeat the St. Mary School auditorium, Appleton.

pay must be equal for equal work "in the same establishment."

(5) You could change job titles and job descriptions to make it appear that women you hire are to do different work from their male counterparts in the same jobs (with different titles).

Cutting men's wages to the current level of women's wages is out: the new law prohibits this. Also illegal is paying women from petty cash funds instead of putting them on the payroll—the petty cash pay being at lower rates, of course.

Otherwise, though, as the law now stands, my five listed guides are legal. No federal law may dictate hiring and firing practices such as these. Only the pressure of labor unions, women's organizations, public opinion, demand for skills may restrain employers from undue discrimination along these lines.

Also a big opening for evasion is in the section allowing you to keep pay differentials on grounds of "any other factor other than sex."

New System

So (6) you could draw up a new wage system specifying standards of height and weight for extra pay. These are factors "other than sex."

(7) You could take advantage of provisions in state wage and administrator of this law, put it hour laws putting limits on the number of hours a woman may work in different business and industry. Obviously, here could be a factor "other than sex" and the restriction could be tailored misinterpretation, chicanery and to fit the law's requirement that equal pay must be provided for "equal skill, effort and responsibility." A woman prohibited this statute? As a working woman, from working overtime certainly an all my life, it is with under-standable sardonic irony that I submit 'SP's Brief Guide to Law Evasion.'"

Senate Votes Jury Trials in Criminal Contempt Actions

Defeat for Administration
But Adoption Was Foreseen

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate adopted today an amendment to the civil rights bill guaranteeing jury trials in all criminal contempt actions arising from the measure, except in voting rights cases.

The vote was 51-48.

The Senate action was a defeat for administration forces, but one which Senate leaders had somewhat discounted in advance. It may help them get closure Wednesday, to end the Southern filibuster against the bill, by nailing down more Republican votes for the debate-limiting procedure.

In advance of the test, Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said he is "cautiously optimistic" that the Senate will vote for closure.

Ready for Decision

Mansfield made this report to President Johnson at the weekly White House breakfast of Democratic congressional leaders.

"We believe that reasonable men are now ready to vote," Mansfield said.

The jury trial amendment was offered by Sen. Thurston B. Morton, R-Ky., and was supported by Southerners, who have been fighting the bill for 74 days.

Thirty-one Democrats and 20 Republicans voted for the amendment. Voting against it were 35 Democrats and 13 Republicans.

One of the Republicans who supported the amendment was Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, the front runner for the GOP presidential nomination.

It was the Senate's first vote in relation to the bill since May 6.

Later in the day it was to debate and act on an amendment by Sen. Bourke B. Hickmon, D-Iowa, dealing with school desegregation, and one by Sen. Norris Cotton, R-N.H., dealing with discrimination in employment.

Jury Trial Pledge

Morton's proposal would guarantee a jury trial in all criminal contempt cases growing out of violations of injunctions obtained under all titles of the bill excepting voting rights.

The guarantee would apply particularly to the titles barring discrimination in public accommodations, employment, public facilities and schools.

On voting rights, the Kentucky amendment would not disturb the 1957 Civil Rights Act. This gives a defendant in a criminal contempt case a jury trial only if the judge decides on a penalty

8 Die in Montana Floods; Loss Estimated at Millions

Waters Sweep From Mountains, Dams Break, Bridges Carried Away

GREAT FALLS, Mont. (AP)—Browning, Dupuyer and East floods described as the worst in memory swept out of Montana's up to 30 feet high over the northwestern mountains Monday, killing at least eight persons, sweeping away dams and bridges and leaving hundreds of residents isolated. Rain pelted the area for the fifth straight day.

At least 70 persons were reported missing.

Authorities said the death toll included five members of one Blackfoot Indian family.

A girl was reported drowned in Valer, on the Indian reservation, and two motorists were killed after their vehicles plunged into raging streams.

In Glacier National Park, more than 200 persons were reported cut off by flooded roads or washed-out bridges. Many were park employees preparing for the summer tourist season.

Col. Howard McKinney of the Montana National Guard said the floods were the greatest natural disaster the state has ever suffered.

Damage estimates ranged into the millions of dollars.

Rescue workers were blocked in many places by washed-out bridges and long stretches of inundated highway. At least 20 bridges and four earthen dams were carried away by the pounding water.

Surprise Deluge

Powered by near-record rains and late-melting mountain snowpacks, the floods hit by surprise.

Center of the flood area was northwest of Great Falls where the surging streams coursed through small communities and ranch homes.

Despite poor flying weather, one jet-powered Air Force helicopter penetrated the flood-stricken area.

With a sling and hoist, Air Force medics lifted seven persons from perches ranging from tree limbs to roof tops. An Air Force spokesman said one man was taken from a roof just as it started to go under water.

30-Foot Wall of Water

Destruction was heaviest in the small communities of Augusta, Choteau, Browning and Dupuyer.

Dams burst near Choteau.

Shoppers, Clerks Trapped When Building Falls

PARKERSBURG, W. Va. (AP)—A four-story brick building in downtown Parkersburg collapsed shortly before noon today, trapping an undetermined number of shoppers and clerks.

There was no immediate report of fatalities.

"It's a catastrophe," said a Parkersburg policeman handling emergency calls.

The outside of the building was being renovated when the collapse occurred. Workmen were on scaffolding in front of the structure.

U. S. Jet Pilot Reported to be Red Prisoner

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—The Communist Pathet Lao was reported today to have captured a U.S. Navy jet pilot shot down by Saturday for her last on a photo-reconnaissance mission over the jungles of central Laos.

Reliable sources said the Pathet Lao headquarters in Khang Khay informed its officials in Vientiane of the capture of Lt. Charles F. Klusmann, 30, of San Diego, Calif., who had parachuted from his Crusader jet fighter on Saturday.

Pathet Lao officials in Vientiane declined to confirm the report. An air search continued for Klusmann.

Second Flier Rescued

A U.S. helicopter rescued Cmdr. Doyle W. Lynn of La Mesa, Calif., Monday and flew him back to the aircraft carrier Kitty Hawk in the South China Sea. Lynn's Crusader was hit Sunday while he was escorting a reconnaissance mission.

The Pathet Lao has held another American flier, a civilian, for nine months.

Eugene DeBruin of Kaukauna, Wis., a flier for the Air America charter company, was captured last September when his transport plane was shot down in southern Laos.

Burglar May Have Set Fire To Car Wash to Hide Prints

Appleton Blaze Definitely Work Of Arson, State Marshal Says

BY RAY PY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

A burglar who apparently sought to cover up tell-tale fingerprints by setting fire to coin machines he pilfered, is thought by authorities to be responsible for an early morning blaze which extensively damaged the Auto Wash, 1714 E. Wisconsin Ave. on Appleton's northeast side.

Two fires which started among gasoline soaked rags and in gasoline pools burned madly in the interior of the building and caused extensive smoke damage throughout the building. Destroyed were four coin machines, a cash register and other office equipment in the cashier's office. No estimate of the damage was made.

The loss is covered by insurance. The building was constructed one year ago for $35,000.

Firemen were called to the firm about 3:30 a.m. when a passerby saw flames breaking through a window near the cashier's cage.

Capt. Donald Dexter said firemen opened the rear of the building to reach the fire then discovered the second fire among the brushes and machinery in the middle of the building.

Dexter said when firemen arrived, the front door of the building was standing fully open and the rear door had been opened enough to allow a person to crawl through.

When the fire subsided to allow firemen to investigate, it was discovered that four coin machines had been forced open and the coin boxes rifled. Police were then called to investigate.

Soaked With Gasoline

Authorities said the burglar or burglars may have placed rags along the bottoms of the coin machines then soaked them with gasoline carried from the outside gasoline pumps in large canister ash trays.

One ash tray, still half filled with gasoline was found near a gasoline pump. A hose from the pump was lying on the ground near the cashier's records showed 18 gallons of gasoline.

Anti-Goldwater Drive Still on, Nixon Asserts

Arizonan Confident Ike Will Not Upset His Nomination

CLEVELAND (AP)—Gov. George Romney of Michigan said today that former Vice President Richard M. Nixon has urged him to offer a "clear choice" between moderate Republicans and Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., in the contest for the GOP presidential nomination.

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon said today the search for an alternative candidate to Sen. Barry Goldwater for the Republican presidential nomination still is being continued by GOP governors.

Goldwater breezed through the 56th annual Governors Conference Monday night and flew back to Washington with confidence that former President Dwight D. Eisenhower will not upset his bid for the nomination.

The Arizona Republican said in an interview he thinks the former president is about the only man who could keep him from getting the nomination. He said he is convinced that Eisenhower will remain neutral.

Criticism Continues

Nixon, the 1960 presidential nominee, said after a breakfast meeting with GOP governors today that several of them who are not satisfied with Goldwater's conservative views are still trying to get together on a candidate they can back.

He said this candidate should be a governor; not himself. He indicated he thinks the most likely possibilities are Govs. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania and George Romney of Michigan.

It was Nixon's opinion that the chances for an agreement on a candidate the party moderates

Court Action Seen In Effort to Avert Cape Kennedy Strike

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—Court action was expected today in an effort to halt picketing which has stopped almost all construction at this space facility.

The Brotherhood of Marine Shipyard Workers, one of 11 non-operating unions on strike against the Florida East Coast Railroad since Jan. 23, 1963, set up picket lines Monday to protest use of Florida East Coast rails to supply major contractors on the cape.

Honoring these lines, 3,445 of the 4,541 building trades workers left their jobs. Work was virtually stopped on the $100 million Saturn moon rocket complex, the Titan 3 project and the Kennedy Space Center headquarters.

A space agency spokesman said today that the National Labor Relations Board has been suspended since President Kennedy's death and is now reviewing the case.

Johnson Fires Answers to GOP Charges

Gives Early Start To 1964 Campaign For Presidency

BY JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson acts like a man who can't wait for the 1964 presidential campaign to start. It actually has started, although it is not supposed to until after this summer's political conventions.

Johnson already has begun firing at complaints Republicans are making and seems sure to continue until Election Day, one way or another. More than that: he sounds as if he takes for granted that Sen. Barry Goldwater will be his opponent.

A speech last week was a direct answer to Goldwater's misgivings about American defenses. Monday he hit at another Goldwater complaint: that government is getting too big and endangering freedom.

GOP Campaign

There's a touch of the Republican campaign of 12 years ago when Dwight D. Eisenhower ran for the White House. Eisenhower himself got into the act Monday with one of his favorite themes of 1952: cut government spending.

At the Governors' Conference in Cleveland Monday, Eisenhower, who has been super-cautious about making any suggestions in the Republican presidential contest, urged a constitutional amendment requiring balanced budgets every two years.

Like Goldwater, he deplored bigness in government. But when he talks about cutting government spending he is in a prickly field where he had to eat his own words when he was president.

Expense Reduction

In 1952 he promised to reduce expenses to $60 billion yearly from what he said was then $80 billion, although actually it was $74 billion. But he hedged it a bit. He said he'd make the reduction "assuming the gold war gets no worse."

He also promised to balance the budget. He never got the budget down to $60 billion. In his last fiscal year it went up to $81.5 billion, highest in peacetime history, with a deficit of almost $4 billion.

He managed to balance the budget only three times in eight years. At the end of his second term the national debt was the highest in history. Both the debt and he budget went up further under President John F. Kennedy.

Poverty Program

In the course of his talk to the governors, Eisenhower took a crack at Johnson's antipoverty program. Johnson could not have known, when he prepared his own speech, what Eisenhower was going to say Monday.

But what he said, while undoubtedly aimed at Goldwater, answered Eisenhower, too, on the question of government bigness. Johnson said the nation need have no fear it was getting too big for the freedom-loving individual.

Goldwater has been playing his warning about bigness over and over like a record.

As long ago as 1960, in his book, "Conscience of a Conservative," Goldwater was saying: "Limited Powers"

"How did our national government grow from a servant with sharply limited powers into a master with virtually unlimited powers? In part we were swindled."

"All too often we have put men in office who have suggested spending a little more on this a little more on that, who have proposed a new welfare program, who have thought of another variety of security."

"We have taken the bait, preferring to put off to another day the recapture of freedom and the restoration of our constitutional system."

Denies Subversion

Johnson said government neither subverts, undermines nor lessens freedom "through the Social Security System, or by bringing electricity to the farm . . . by controlling floods, by providing bank failures . . . by providing school lunches for our children."

Goldwater has toned down his statements about the Social Security System. He suggested putting it on a voluntary basis, although how it could then survive he never explained.

After he lost the New Hampshire primary in March his campaign manager there said he had pulled a major omer in advocating a voluntary Social Security System.

Since then Goldwater has been saying he simply wants to improve Social Security, not end it, by keeping the dollar sound.

CAB Refuses to Delay Steps in Service Probe

Clintonville Asked Deferral Until After Other Decisions

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Civil Aeronautics Board refused today to defer further procedural steps in its North Central area airline service investigation case until after decisions in two other area airport proceedings.

The board denied a petition by Clintonville, Wis., for deferral until the outcome of regional airport investigations involving service in New England and in eastern North Carolina has been determined.

Last month the CAB decided to review a Feb. 19 finding by examiner Edward T. Stodola that:

Appleton-Oshkosh

1. The Appleton-Oshkosh complex of communities in Wisconsin should receive scheduled air service through a new airport near Neenah, Wis.

2. Unless Outagamie and Winnebago counties agree on a new airport near Neenah, they

Savannah Sails on Transatlantic Trip

NEW YORK (AP) — The world's first atom-powered merchant ship has sailed on its first transatlantic voyage.

The nuclear ship Savannah left Monday for Bremerhaven, Germany, with 289 tons of general cargo, 6,000 bags of mail and 13 paying passengers. She has accommodations for 60. Non-paying travelers and nuclear ship trainees filled the remaining berths.

The crossing is expected to take 10 days.

should continue to receive airline service at their own airports except that Appleton's service would be transferred to the proposed new Outagamie County airport near Greenville.

3. The central Wisconsin cities of Wausau, Stevens Point, Marshfield and Wisconsin Rapids should be served through a new regional airport near Mosinee, Wis. Pending its development, Wisconsin Rapids and Stevens Point should continue to receive service through the Stevens Point airport and Marshfield and Wausau through the Wausau airport.

4. North Central airlines should continue to serve Green Bay, Clintonville, La Crosse, Rhinelander, Land O'Lakes and Ashland, Wis., and Ironwood, Mich., and Winona, Minn., through their home airports. Parties to the proceeding must file their briefs by next Friday.

Mill Shutdown Periods May be Thing of Past

Most Corporations Staggering Summer Vacation This Year

Summer vacation shutdowns may be becoming a thing of the past as 10 of 17 major Fox Cities mills will have staggered vacations for their employees this year.

Two companies are discontinuing their shutdown policies for the first time this summer. They are Tuttle Press Co. and Combined Locks Paper Co.

Combined Locks has given its employees the week of July 4 off in previous years. Machine repairs will be made at Combined Locks during the summer.

Start June 28

Many shutdowns will begin during the week of June 28. Fox River Paper Corp. will start its shutdown then, and the vacation will end July 13.

Limited crews will be working on finishing and shipping, while maintenance and installation work also will be done.

The Atlas Mill of Kimberly-Clark Corp. will be closed from June 27 to July 6. Major repair work will be done on the machines during this time.

K-C's Kimberly plant and Vulcan Power House in Appleton will not shut down but will have staggered vacations.

Others Staying Open

Other companies not shutting down include Thilmany Pulp and Paper Co., Kaukauna, and Valley Iron Works Corp., Appleton Wire Works Corp., Appleton Manufacturing Co., and River-side Paper Co., all of Appleton. Zwicker Knitting Mills will shut down June 26 to July 6. Major maintenance work during the vacation will be on plant boilers.

The Appleton Mills will have its customary shutdown June 29 to July 6. Skeleton crews will be on duty, and maintenance will be done on machines.

Miller Electric Manufacturing Co. will be closed July 3-20. Maintenance work will be done, and limited crews will work.

One-Week Shutdown

The Appleton Coated Paper Company will have a one-week shutdown from June 29 to July 5. Minor equipment will be installed and other machinery will be relocated.

The one-week shutdown was last used by the company in 1960.

The latest shutdown will be held by Appleton Machine Co. from July 13-26. A skeleton crew will be employed in the road department, and repair work will be done on machines.

Scranton Surprises Governors, Guests By Dancing Polka

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania caught other governors and their guests flatfooted at a reception at the National Governors Conference.

The group sat quietly Monday night listening to four strolling gypsy violinists playing for some costumed dancing girls. Without warning, Scranton jumped up and whisked his wife, Mary, onto the floor for what witnesses said turned into a vigorous Hungarian polka.

Observers said Scranton's expression never changed from his usual deadpan during the whirl around the floor.

Dollar Volume Rising; Trend May Continue

Early Reports on Second Quarter Are Reassuring to Stockholders

NEW YORK (AP) — Profits still point upward. Early reports on second-quarter operations and reassuring predictions at annual stockholder meetings are in near unanimous agreement on the trend. The dollar volume is rising. This should continue for a while.

But there the unanimity ends. How to interpret profits; even how to figure them; what they should mean to workers, stockholders and customers; how would-be investors should react — there you have a wide choice. Labor is using the record net earnings after taxes that are being reported or predicted by many companies as a talking point in demanding higher wage scales, and some unions seem likely to get them.

Higher Dividends
Stockholders dream of higher dividend payments, and the total continues to rise.

The government has suggested that customers might share in the happy event if prices were cut a bit as profits rise. But management usually replies that increasing production costs make that unlikely.

Wall Street eyes rising stock prices to see if they're advancing faster than dividends. This makes returns on investment really less glamorous than they might seem without close inspection.

And corporate treasurers and presidents point out that the announced profit figures themselves can give the wrong impression to the general public, unless they're lined up against all the other changes in the economy.

But the dollar profits are piling up. Much of this is because sales volume and increased production multiply earnings at a fast rate after the break-even point is passed. Part of the latter net income is due to the lower federal tax on gross corporate earnings. A lot is the result of cost-cutting and labor-saving devices.

Management argues that the profit increase so far is merely a catching up after earlier stag-nation. And it says that today's profits are still much too low if industry is to expand and provide all the higher-priced plant and machinery that are called for to bring the economy up to potentiality.

Army Checks On Who Buys Surplus Rifles

Denies Action Due To Assassination of President Kennedy

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the news from Washington:

RIFLES: The Army is keeping closer tabs on who buys its surplus rifles.

The office which promotes civilian marksmanship has centralized a listing of persons who purchase the rifles from the Army and who belong to recognized rifle clubs.

Authorities denied Monday the move came as a result of President John F. Kennedy's assassination by a sniper using a surplus Italian army rifle.

They said the actions stemmed from an increased volume of inquiries about persons and clubs authorized to draw weapons and ammunition from Army stocks for target practice and competition.

ROMANIA: The United States will talk over with its allies its tentative plans for selling two nuclear reactors to Communist Romania, a State Department spokesman said Monday.

State Department press officer Richard I. Phillips said there will be conversations in Paris with the committee of allies which coordinates trade with Communist countries with the general aim of blocking any goods of military importance.

DISTURBANCE: A group of Mississippi Negroes told a panel of educators, lawyers and writers Monday of suffering beatings, shootings and bombings in their state.

Some of the incidents came after Negroes attempted to register, they said.

The meeting, sponsored by the Council of Federated Organizations which plans a massive Negro voter registration drive in Mississippi this summer, was interrupted briefly.

A white man who identified himself as George Patler, 26, a member of the American Nazi party, leaped on stage, shouting for the Negroes to "go home. You're a bunch of filthy swine." Police arrested him.

Pope Speaks Bluntly To Industrialists

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI, in one of the bluntest speeches of his year-old reign, has told Italian industrialists the materialistic concepts of early capitalism must be overcome in the interest of a "more peaceful, more brotherly society."

Vatican sources said the Pope was speaking against efforts to misuse religion to discourage legitimate labor protests.

In his speech to the Congress of Christian Industrialists and Business Managers Monday, Pope Paul blamed Communists and those who prize wealth above all else for many of society's ills.

Stop Goldwater Drive Crumbles

The last-ditch efforts of anti-Goldwater Republican leaders to unite on a candidate and sidetrack a Goldwater nomination were far too little and too late. Efforts of the group will now be directed at writing a moderate and constructive platform and securing Goldwater's agreement to go along with such a document.

No opposition candidate to Goldwater with a chance to win the nomination can be offered at the Republican convention because the only opponent who was an avowed candidate, Governor Rockefeller, couldn't win at the primary polls, and the others like Nixon, Scranton and Romney held themselves out of the fight until too late in the game. It is still a political truism that there is really no such thing as a "draft" and that men who win public office are those who state publicly that they want it and put in the necessary campaigning to get it.

The statements these phantom candidates are now making appear quite ironic when matched with what they have said before.

After Nixon was defeated in the California gubernatorial race he said it was "my last campaign for public office." In 1963 he stated he would not under any circumstances accept a presidential draft. By early this year he was saying "I will play whatever role the party decides." And over the weekend he said, "If the party should decide on me as its candidate Mr. Johnson would know he'd been in a fight."

Scranton said as recently as April the nomination should go to someone who fought for it "rather than someone who sits on the sidelines and gets it in any easy way." He said he wasn't even stirred up enough about the issues to make a good candidate. Last week he said he'd be willing, if drafted, to accept the vice presidential nomination.

Then suddenly, after Eisenhower summoned him for a talk, he announced "I'm ready to serve." He didn't even say he'd have to be drafted. "I have a feeling that the country as a whole is beginning to think he does not measure up to the principles of the Republican party," he said, referring to Goldwater.

At this point critics began to ask what Scranton's views might be on national issues. He certainly has never expressed them.

Romney took a similar line. He said Goldwater has "voiced public views that do not square with the principles for which the Republican party stands."

Rockefeller got in a dig at this point at both Scranton and Romney. He is understandably bitter. Where were they all these months while he and Goldwater were campaigning from one end of the country to the other?

Meanwhile Goldwater himself was quite objective about the situation. He said he didn't believe any effective coalition against him could be put together at this point. He said if he were Scranton the Pennsylvania governor should be thinking about second place on the ticket and that if he and Scranton lost to President Johnson Scranton then would be in a good tactical position for 1968.

He said he, Scranton and Nixon "are all very close together on Republican principles," and disagree only on minor points. He said he could run on a platform that would contain the Civil Rights Bill passed by Congress, and added: "I can assure you it won't be the one that is before us now."

All of which adds critical importance to the job of Rep. Melvin Laird as chairman of the Republican platform committee. It now appears that it is within his committee that the main battle of the convention will take place.

Wallace's Main Support Came From Wisconsin's Hillbillies

From The Peoria Journal-Star
Alabama's Gov. Wallace's impressive vote total in the Wisconsin primary is not surprising. Demagogues do well in the Badger State.

It is surprising, perhaps, to people who are not familiar with Wisconsin. The popular conception of this northern state comes from its industrial south, where Milwaukee, Racine, Kenosha are located. It was this area that produced some of the nation's top liberals, like the great Progressive Robert M. La Follette.

Indeed, the University of Wisconsin at Madison is one of the most liberal schools in the world.

Why then did Wisconsin give such a whopping vote total to an anti-civil rights leader from the deep South? One immediate answer is that Wisconsin's rich industrial, liberal south is only one part of the state. Another big part of the state is poor, poorly educated, and very much like the hillbilly areas of the deep South.

Land is rock-covered in northern Wisconsin, which was hit hard by the glaciers. The first step many Badger farmers must take is that of clearing huge boulders off the land. When this is done (an enormous job, incidentally) the farmer still has a hard time getting a living off this poor land, which doesn't begin to compare with Illinois' rich, flat soil.

They work long and hard for, in many cases, a grubby existence. They haven't much time for reading or writing. Tired, poorly educated, discontent, they are easy prey for demagogues. Any talented speaker who wishes to make capital of social discontent in order to gain political influence hits fertile soil in Northern Wisconsin.

This was the climate which spawned Joseph McCarthy, the senator whose reputation for character assassination was world-wide. Representative Alvin E. O'Konski, considered by Madison's Capital Times as a blatant demagogue, has been elected and re-elected steadily for the past 20 years by this northern Wisconsin element.

So when an orator like Wallace turns up in Wisconsin spreading discontent, he can be sure of heavy support in many areas. Obviously he was not unaware of this "climate" when he decided to make his test run in Wisconsin.

Adults Must Create Jobs For Teen-Ager

Editor, Post-Crescent:

Having recently read an article in the Post-Crescent concerning the shortage of jobs for teen-agers, the thought occurred to me that we have an obligation as adults to heed these children's pleas for constructive work. Perhaps if we even created jobs for them, to help them develop, we would be helping to curb the rise of juvenile delinquency. An old phrase that has often proved true is "An idle mind is the devil's workshop." Maybe they are unskilled and untrained but we could put up with these shortcomings with the thought that we are helping a young man or young woman to attain responsible adulthood. They are asking us to let them help us. Let us help them by finding work for the young people in our neighborhood. By training the youth to do constructive work we certainly help to make the world a better place to live in.

Renaming Appleton High For Mr. Helble Proposed

Editor, Post-Crescent:

After reading your stirring article in View Magazine I began thinking I agree with the idea of naming the new high school after the late John F. Kennedy. If this is done why not name the old high school "Herbert H. Helble High School"?

I am sure Mr. Helble is very pleased with his plaque that was presented to him. I feel and so do the students of Appleton High School that renaming the present high school in honor of Mr. Helble would be the most fitting tribute we, the citizens of Appleton, could pay this man.

I am sure anybody reading this letter has had him as a principal or knows him personally. I am sure everyone will agree he has been an excellent principal and what a warm, generous man he is.

I again repeat, why not name the present high school after the only principal it has known?

Constitution Revision Commission Plans to Continue Its Studies

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON—The State Constitutional Revision Commission has had little encouragement for its work thus far, and it might very well have been dismayed when the voters in a referendum two months ago rejected its first mild proposal for a change in the state's constitutional law.

But Chairman Thomas E. Fairchild, the justice of the State Supreme Court who is leading the revision studies, has made it clear that the work will go on, in the hope that better popular understanding of future propositions will make them acceptable.

In a report currently published by the State Bar of Wisconsin he discloses that the blue ribbon advisory group will grapple next with some of the fundamental and far-reaching issues involved in the modernization of the constitution that was adopted more than 100 years ago.

FIVE MAJOR IDEAS

Among the five major ideas now being reviewed are:

1. Extension of the two-year term rule to four-year tenure for the five state constitutional officers starting with the governor, with a possible provision for the requirement of election of the governor and lieutenant governor as members of the same party ticket.
2. A rewriting of the state's finance clause, with the objective of permitting the state to contract a reasonable amount of debt for the acquisition and construction of institutional buildings.
3. Relaxation of the uniformity requirement for town and county government.
4. A new article on the courts and the judiciary, which the judge does not further describe.
5. Creation of a nonpartisan commission for periodic reapportionment.

Wyngaard

The commission head also suggests the possibility of a proposal for shortening of the state election ballot by the elimination of the offices of secretary of state, treasurer and possibly attorney general from the election process.

These are familiar propositions, on the whole, and reflect the increasingly articulate convictions of thoughtful critics of state government in recent decades. Not all of them will be easy to promote successfully, in the legislature or in a referendum election. But all of them will command substantial support from many informed and responsible citizens.

The commission has shown a noteworthy prudence in its selection of subjects, in contrast to the exuberant demands for wholesale scuttling of the ancient constitutional framework by some of the more noisy critics in the political arena. It has rejected out of hand, for example, the idea of promoting a constitutional convention for the complete rewriting of the constitution.

Justice Fairchild gently reminds that the commission in spite of the magnitude of its assignment has not been granted any money for its work. As a result it does not have a staff to assist it or resources for the dissemination of its conclusions. One wonders why one of the many lawyers in the legislature has not yet taken the hint and offered a bill for a modest appropriation. This project would appear to be more worthy of a small operating budget than many of the others so casually authorized by the Legislative Council, for example.

A minimum need is provision for a public information service. As Justice Fairchild wrote, it is difficult at best to arouse rank and file public interest in what appear to many voters to be esoteric matters. A voter, not to mention a legislator, is likely to vote against a proposition that he does not understand or in which he has no particular interest.

All Mass Movements Have Negative Goals

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Perhaps the greatest impediment to human progress is the depressing psychological fact that people are never as motivated by positive factors as by negative ones.

Over the last 20 years of writing a column, I have received hundreds of letters all beginning the same way. The writers seem totally unconscious of what they are revealing about themselves.

"Dear Mr. Harris," this familiar letter begins. "I have read and enjoyed your column for many years, and most of the time I agree with it. However, in yesterday's paper, you said something I am forced to take violent issue with."

It never occurs to these people that it was the one article they disagreed with that motivated them to sit down and write a letter to me. No positive feelings of agreement ever moved them to action as much as this one negative feeling of disagreement.

This seems to be the way we are made. Politicians know that the "anti" letters will always outweigh the "pro" letters, because it is only when voters are stirred to anger or resentment or contradiction that they will take the time or trouble to express their feelings.

A crusade that is "against" something can always recruit more volunteers than one that is for something. This is largely because people are much more clear about the things they are against than the things they are for, just as it is much easier to demolish a building than to put one up.

Almost all mass-movements in history have been motivated by negative impulses: getting rid of this group, killing off that group, imprisoning another group, expropriating still another group. Yet, oddly enough, when the groups have been eliminated, it has always been found that the problems persisted, although perhaps in some different form.

"You never see a mob rushing across town to save some child's life," observed Josh Billings. What arouses people are anger, disputation and aggressiveness. Preserving our national forests, for instance — and the whole crucial question of conservation — has attracted relatively few followers, despite its importance, because it does not appeal to any of our "anti" instincts. It is simply good and constructive in itself.

There are millions of Americans who are for stiffer prison sentences and harsher parole limitations — but only a handful care about rehabilitating prisoners and finding jobs for them. Yet, if we don't do the latter, the prisons will continue to be filled with sullen repeaters. Is the human animal fated to commit suicide at the hands of his own negative impulses?

Potomac Fever— by Jack Wilson

Some Congressmen want to solve the school prayer problem with a bill requiring a moment of silent prayer. Any Congressman knows that it takes a law to make people stop talking.

Republicans oppose treasury's request for a higher limit on the national debt. They say the heck with the ceiling — what about the storm cellar?

Khrushchev says he has good satellite pictures of U.S. military bases. Maybe he's the man who can help Secretary McNamara decide which ones to shut down.

Our Ambassador to India Uses Unusual Techniques

BY CONRAD FINK
NEW DELHI, India (AP) — The smiling American, dust on his face and the wind ruffling his hair, walked slowly through a crowd of farmers squatting in a dry field in western India. Shoving aside a chair, he sat on the ground among the farmers under a burning sun. "Now," he said, "tell me your problems."

Chester Bowles, U.S. ambassador to India, was at work.

Troubles Related
After recovering from their astonishment at seeing a white sahib sitting among them, the gaunt, turbaned farmers loosed a torrent—not enough to eat, fields drying up, cattle starving, no jobs, everybody sick. "O. K.," Bowles said, "we're going to help. The people of the United States are with you."

Then he paused for emphasis. "And, I'm glad to see you're building a new road and trying to help yourselves."

Bowles Approach
In 29 words, it summed up the Bowles approach—an approach that makes him one of America's most effective ambassadors in Asia. It is: he who helps himself can expect help from America.

As a diplomat, the 63-year-old Bowles is a switch hitter. He is a visionary and idealist by nature, a man at home with ideas and long-range thinking. He speaks and writes beautifully and fluently on the problems of underdeveloped nations, masterfully weaving the perspective of history into a hard-headed approach to today's problems.

He can philosophize with philosophers and chew the fat with farmers.

Impatience
The other side of Bowles is a gnawing impatience with the administrative details of running a "diplomatic shop." "He's a lousy administrator," one intimate said.

Bowles has surrounded himself with bright young men who make housekeeping decisions. Bowles gets on with what he feels is an ambassador's real job.

Dressed in faded slacks and a sport shirt that flaps in the wind, Bowles zips around India in a U.S. Air Force plane, spreading his message.

Wife Helps
At his side, more often than not, is his wife Dorothy—"Stebby," he calls her in an affectionate shortening of her maiden name, Stebbins.

Many Indians are intrigued with Bowles' unaffected attempts to be normal. They delight in telling good natured stories about him.

One has it that Bowles had to borrow a pair of formal striped pants to wear at the ceremony in which he presented his credentials to the Indian government. When he showed up at the president's office, so the story goes, the pants quite visibly were several sizes too large.

Different Residence
Another source of Indian delight is Bowles' refusal to live in Roosevelt House, the ultra-modern official residence complete with winding staircase and fish pond on the embassy grounds.

"Hell," he reasons, "a fella could never be comfortable in a place like that."

So, the Bowles live in a rambling house filled with comfortable furniture and books off a tree-shaded street several miles from the embassy. Diplomats, officials and newspapermen sometimes gather on the back porch and lawn.

All this has made Bowles easily the best known diplomat in New Delhi.

Red Attack
Leftist writers, however, are gunning for him by name almost every day.

One rabidly anti-American newspaper tabbed him the "imperial governor-general" and said he feels he has a divine right to dictate to India.

Bowles is attacked bitterly for what some Indians feel is pro-Pakistan sentiment in U.S. official circles or Washington attempts to force a sellout of India's interests in the disputed Himalayan state of Kashmir.

Though Bowles claims these attacks do not bother him, they have introduced a note of caution in his method of operation.

Duck Out
Thus, Bowles did a "diplomatic duck out" in April when Sheikh Mohammed Abdullah, Kashmiri independence leader, visited New Delhi for talks with Prime Minister Nehru.

Officially, Bowles went to the mountains to escape the brutal summer heat in New Delhi and recuperate from a minor stomach ailment. But, it was learned, Bowles was trying to avoid entanglement in the India-Kashmir squabble.

The risk of such entanglements and losing friends for America instead of making them is an occupational hazard with U.S. ambassadors in India and Bowles is careful in dealing with government officials.

Friendly Approach
Indian sources say he never approached Prime Minister Nehru with the standard, "My government has instructed me to inform you—"

Instead, the sources say, Bowles was likely to go into Nehru's office with a wry grin on his face and explain, "Look, Mr. Prime Minister, this is our position. Now, how about—"

Bowles' greatest problems are overseeing the giant U.S. economic aid program—more than $5.4 billion since 1951—and fanning the embers of pro-American sentiment lighted by the speedy way Washington reacted with military aid during the India-China border war in 1962.

A native of Springfield, Mass., Bowles made his first career in advertising. During World War II, he switched to government service and was director of the Office of Price Administration. He was governor of Connecticut 1948-1950 and a member of the House of Representatives 1950-1960. In 1951-53, he was ambassador to India and Nepal.

Then came tours as under-secretary of state and President John F. Kennedy's special representative and adviser on African, Asian and Latin American affairs.

There was a clash of ideas and personalities with some members of Kennedy's administration, however, and he left Washington and returned to India.

The transition didn't dampen his enthusiasm.

"I'm just the kind of fellow," he says, "who would rather say a bottle is half full, and not that it's half empty."

Three Win $800 Grants

Lawrence Students To Do Research in Social Sciences

Three Lawrence College juniors have been given summer grants of $800 each by the Social Science Research Council operating under the Ford Foundation's Public Affairs grant.

Receiving awards are Gordon Bond, Crystal Lake, Ill.; Stephen Mullen, Minneapolis, Minn., and Susan Nelson, Madison.

The Social Science Research Council provides funds for joint projects between students and faculty members during the college year and the $800 summer grants for totally independent work. There have been 46 term-time projects and ten done during the summer.

Bond will study the theoretical aspects of the application of game theory to decision-making in the political system. He will abstract important theories from current writings and test them against the current political situation in Illinois.

He will draw on records of the Illinois assembly and interview key members of the legislature. A mathematics major, Bond will work with Lawrence government professors Mojmir Povolny and Chong-Do Hah and with James Dana of the economics department in the area of mathematical application.

Stephen Mullen, a student in psychology, will work with an ASI 2100 high speed computer in Minneapolis studying the simulation of personality using mathematical models. The work was inspired by an article written by John C. Loehin describing his attempts at building a computer model of personality.

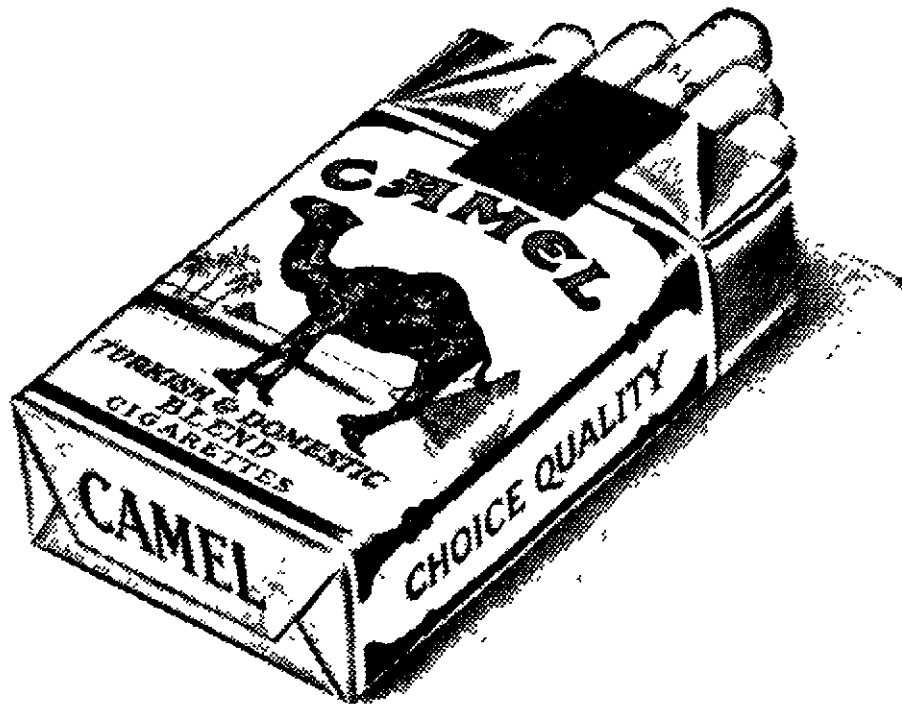

Mullen has formulated his own model and programmed it for Lawrence's smaller computer, using 38,000 of its 40,000-digit memory. As the model is expanded by adding more personality characteristics, however, use of a larger machine is needed, which the Social Science Research Council grant will supply.

Susan Nelson, a government major working with Dr. Mojmir Povolny, will study United Nations records in the libraries of the universities of Wisconsin and Chicago to follow the participation of Ghana in the UN, in comparison to her avowed policies. This will involve testing Ghana's alignment or non-alignment with major blocs within the UN, and relating its behavior to its policies of Pan-Africanism, positive neutralism and non-alignment.

Anti-Goldwater Drive Still on, Nixon Asserts

could back against Goldwater were not very great.

Nixon contended that the party must work hard to have Goldwater change some of his views on national issues.

"It would be a tragedy for the Republican party if the Goldwater views previously stated were not repudiated," Nixon told the news conference.

Nixon termed Goldwater "as odds-on favorite," but said he does not have the nomination "wrapped up."

He said that a number of the governors expressed concern because there might not be a contest at the Republican convention in San Francisco.

Nixon also contended that any opposition force "if it emerges, will have to emerge this week."

He said that if such a development were to come about it would be decided by the governors "by the end of this week."

Goldwater, given an ovation on his arrival at a conference dinner, stayed to hear Eisenhower speak. He talked briefly with Eisenhower and other party leaders while table-hopping, then flew back to Washington for action on the civil rights bill amendments.

"I think President Eisenhower is neutral in this situation as he has been in the past," Goldwater said. "I do not think he has changed his position and I do not expect him to take any action that would be aimed at blocking me."

Goldwater said that in the absence of any expressed opposition from Eisenhower he is confident he will get the nomination at the mid-July San Francisco convention. He added that he thinks he has a good chance of defeating President Johnson in November.

"Wait until the people begin to assess Johnson's stand on this civil rights question and come to realize that his spending policies are out of line," the senator said. "Then we'll see whether we Republicans can beat him."

Avoids Critics Within GOP
In a brief appearance as a conference guest, Goldwater avoided any conferences with Republican governors who have been complaining that his conservative views would make it difficult for him to carry their states as the GOP nominee.

Specifically, he did not make himself available for discussions with Govs. George Romney of Michigan, William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania and Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York. All three have said that Goldwater's positions on foreign and domestic policies would damage the Republican ticket in their important electoral vote states.

Goldwater indicated that his conference with Eisenhower did not get deeply into politics. He said the former president did not bring up political matters and he himself didn't volunteer any observations in that field.

"We talked mostly about golf and how to get rid of the bursitis that has been bothering him," the senator said.

Eisenhower, who urged the governors to get behind a movement for the states to originate a constitutional amendment requiring balancing of the federal budget every two years, conferred with 15 of the 16 Republican governors on the political situation. Romney missed the meeting but flew in later.

menista party and an old friend as the gunman.

It was the second political shooting since Panama's national elections May 10.

Panama's U.N. ambassador, Aquilino Boyd, fired two shots May 21 at the editor of a newspaper which accused Boyd of election fraud. The editor, Escobar Calvo, received a minor wound.

Arias was in surgery twice Monday night over a period of almost eight hours. First, doctors removed bullets from his right arm and his right side. He was given blood transfusions. Then the surgeons removed a bullet which lodged against the spinal column and caused paralysis.

housed in emergency accommodations in Great Falls.

Typhoid vaccine was dispatched to a number of cities driven by Reynaldo Medina Monday when they met Jimenez' car stopped at an intersection for a red light.

Witnesses said Jimenez spotted Arias, leaped from his car, whipped out a pistol and fired. "You're not going to cross me up," Medina said Jimenez shouted.

Arias and Jimenez, in his late 30s, ran as candidates for deputy and alternate deputy, respectively, in the National Assembly. Publication of the vote count Monday showed Jimenez elected, but as an alternate for another deputy and not Arias.

Speculation was that Jimenez believed he would have less chance to sit in the assembly than he would have had as Arias' alternate.

Criticizes Monfils

Knowles Accuses Reynolds Of 'Government by Crony'

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Warren Knowles, the endorsed Republican candidate for governor, has attacked the state's Civil Defense director as a symbol of the "government by crony" he said is being developed by Democratic Gov. John W. Reynolds.

Knowles told a Waukesha GOP dinner Monday night that "the taxpayers are supporting Owen Monfils at $15,000 a year as director of Civil Defense... but he doesn't do anything for Civil Defense, as far as I can determine."

At Richland Center, Patrick Lucey, the Democratic lieutenant governor candidate, said that Reynolds has compiled "a progressive record in his 17 months in office" and listed "at least 10 good reasons why he should be reelected."

Knowles said that Monfils "is an old Green Bay crony" of Reynolds, and "I think he is engaged fulltime in partisan politics instead of Civil Defense, and the taxpayer is footing the bill. This is the kind of 'government by crony' we are being subjected to under the political machine the governor is building in the executive office."

Lucey, who did not mention his own campaign, told a Democratic meeting that Reynolds' record included a fight for adequate school aids while easing the property tax burden, obtaining improved treatment for the mentally ill and retarded, vetoing a general sales tax which would have taxed food and clothing, forcing property tax relief for home owners and renters over the age of 65 and persisting in his reappointment battle with the Republican dominated Legislature.

Plans Delayed

The Madison headquarters of Wilbur N. Renk, the endorsed Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate, said Monday he is undergoing treatment in a Madison hospital and has cancelled campaign activities planned for this week.

Renk, 55, entered St. Mary's Hospital Friday to be treated for a bladder condition. His physician said it may be several days before he is allowed to resume his campaign.

Glenn Davis, who seeks nomination as the Republican candidate for representative in the 9th District, said Monday night at Waukesha that the administration's "so-called war on poverty program is a cruel yet dangerous political hoax."

He said the program, as reported in bill form to the House by the Committee on Education last week "would neither create nor encourage the creation of any substantial new employment."

Burglar May Have Set Fire To Auto Wash

line had been taken from the pump.

The burglars apparently emptied the gasoline into runoff pits in the interior of the building. Gasoline in both places was then ignited.

Loss Undetermined

Police have not learned how much money was taken from the coin machines. Al C. Fischer, who says he is the owner of the wash, said no money is kept in the open cash register. The coin machines are owned by a vending machine company.

Police questioned neighbors early this morning who said they heard "pounding noises" coming from the wash, then saw one person run from the area through a vacant lot. The neighbor said he saw something resembling "flashes" coming from the car wash.

Firemen fought the blaze for 90 minutes before bringing it under control. Fischer said most of the machinery, electrical wiring and much of the foundation of the building was damaged.

Prints Destroyed

Fingerprint experts from the Appleton Police Department examined tools found near the damaged machines but have not been able to distinguish a set of identifiable prints. The fire destroyed any prints that would be left, authorities said.

The tools were taken from a tool box in the building and left scattered on the floor.

Also entered were large wooden cabinets on the west side of the building used for storage of oil and auto parts. Entry was made by forcing the hinges from the wooden cabinet. It was not learned immediately if anything is missing.

New Guinea Natives Raising Fund to Buy Lyndon Johnson

BY KEITH WILLEY

PORT MORESBY, New

Guinea (AP)—Anti-Australian Papuans on New Hanover Island are raising a fund to buy President Johnson.

They want the American president to take over their little island 300 miles northeast of Australian New Guinea. They expect him to bring vast riches.

To swell their purchase fund, they are refusing to pay the head tax of $4.48 a year. The movement reportedly has 2,500 members.

The Australian administration has sent District Commissioner Mick Healey and more than 40 armed police to New Hanover from neighboring New Ireland Island. New Hanover has a population of 8,000 Papuans and a dozen uneasy whites.

The leader of the so-called Johnson Cult is a 20-year-old Papuan "prophet" named Bosmialek who worked for a U.S. Air Force survey team on New Hanover earlier this year.

Healy said Bosmialek has told his followers that 600 U.S. troops will arrive June 16 on the Queen Mary with several helicopters to help throw out the Australian administration. He said the cultists have prepared three landing sites for the helicopters.

During the recent House of Assembly election, the cultists refused to vote when told they could not vote for President Johnson.

Ship Diverted

Bosmialek's followers believe Johnson will send ships loaded with cargo for their use. Bosmialek said early this year the first such ship would arrive on April 10. A U.S. survey ship due in New Hanover on that date was hastily diverted to New Ireland.

New Hanover and neighboring islands have been the center of pro-American cults since American troops were stationed on them during World War II. A U.N. mission two years ago heard witness after witness ask that the United States replace Australia as the governing authority.

GREEN LAKE — Wittenberg and Amherst youths Monday were named winners of the Future Farmers of America speaking contest at the 30th annual convention on the Baptist Assembly Grounds.

2 Banks Act on Holding Firm Affiliation

Two area banks have begun action to join northeastern Wisconsin's first bank holding company.

The directors of Valley Bancorporation revealed today their approval of an application to the board of governors of the Federal Reserve System for the acquisition of the outstanding voting stock of Sherwood State Bank, Sherwood, and Reedsville State Bank, Reedsville, by Valley Bancorporation.

Directors of both banks had voted approval of the application earlier.

Gus A. Zuehlke, president of Valley Bancorporation, said, "We look forward to the addition of these two fine banks. Their membership will allow all banks of the corporation to expand with greater vitality than any of them could as an independent bank."

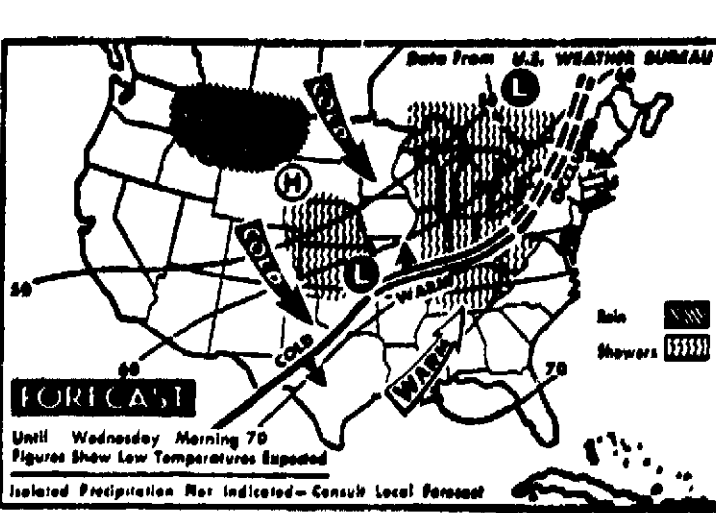

An offer to exchange Sherwood and Reedsville bank stock for Valley Bancorporation stock will be made following approval of the application by the Federal Reserve Board.

Present members of Valley Bancorporation are Appleton State Bank, Northern State Bank, Appleton, and Bank of Black Creek, Black Creek.

The directors of Valley Bancorporation also approved a 30-cent per share quarterly dividend.

To Attend Convention

The members of the Grand Chute Volunteer Fire Department have voted to send their chief, Vincent Baum, to the annual Fire Chief's Convention at Milwaukee, July 12-15.

Rain is Expected to continue tonight in the northern plateau. Scattered showers and thundershowers are predicted in the central plains and from the Tennessee valley through the upper Mississippi valley and Great Lakes area. It will be warmer from the Mississippi valley to the Atlantic coast, except for Florida, and colder in the northern plateau and plains areas. (AP Wirephoto Map)

Casco Teacher Proposes New English System

High School Students Will Learn by Ability Not by Grade

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A small city school administrator described his plans for inaugurating an ungraded English instruction program in his high school next fall.

Gerald F. Thielke, principal at Casco High School in Kewaunee County, reported in the Journal of the Wisconsin Association of School Boards potentially his plan to group English high school students according to their achievements rather than their ages, and without reference to their formal grade classifications.

The result hoped for, he said, is a more flexible and effective instruction program without the additions of staff and the special classes that have been launched in some of the larger city school systems but which smaller schools cannot afford.

"To group children by age to make up grades in school makes about as much sense as grouping them by their height," the Casco school officer reported to the state school boards.

Thielke said his entire student body will be placed in one of five levels in the English teaching course, based upon achievement tests and teacher recommendations.

Thus it will be possible for freshmen to be in classes with juniors, for example. As a student reaches the required level

Rural Chilton Youth Suffers Severe Burns

CHILTON—A 15-year-old rural Chilton youth was burned on more than 50 per cent of his body at 6:30 p.m. Monday when gasoline he was working with apparently exploded.

Harold Schneider, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Schneider, route 2, Chilton, was listed in satisfactory condition today at Calumet Memorial hospital.

Dr. Kenneth Humke, who treated the youth, said 25 per cent of the burns were second degree, and the remainder were first degree.

The youth had been painting and had washed his body with gasoline to remove paint he had gotten on himself during the painting.

He then rewashed his body with water at which time the fire started. The specific origin of the fire had not been determined.

of competence in his grade, he will be advanced without regard to the time of year.

"Use of this system will permit the student to let his imagination and curiosity carry him ahead and beyond his fellows if he has the desire and ability. It will also allow the teacher to concentrate on a much narrower group of individual differences and to teach in depth," Thielke stated.

The five steps will include a remedial stage, a second, third and fourth stage system that will roughly follow the present freshman-junior sequence, and a fifth that will be primarily intended as college preparatory instruction. A sixth step may be added to cover individual study programs, Thielke said.

Medieval Setting Chosen for Post-Graduation Prom

No duels were fought at the Appleton High School Graduation Prom Thursday evening, but the members of the Olympian Hi-Y, sponsoring this year's party, could not resist acting out the roles they were costumed for. King Bob Ridgely watched his 'soldiers' wield their swords. They are Malcolm McIntyre, Jeff Sage, Craig Nissen and John Strange. The crowns above the throne represent the triple crown won by Appleton High this year. At right, in lordly attire, Rick Miller and Marty Myse welcome Gary Griesbach, who was graduated Thursday evening, and his date, Pat Hanson, who was graduated from Menasha High School Wednesday evening.

King Arthur's swash-buckling era of lords and soldiers and the chivalrous age of knighthood were recreated for Appleton High Schools Graduation Prom Thursday evening at Riverview Country Club.

The Olympian Hi-Y Club sponsored this year's party, with Marty Myse acting as general chairman of arrangements. The young men did an impressive job of turning the club into a medieval setting, with the dance floor taking on the appearance of a castle courtyard, with twinkling stars under a blue net sky.

With Dash and Poise

Party guests were greeted at the porticoed entrance by knights and peasants, in costumes borrowed from the Lawrence College Drama Department, who parked cars and opened doors with all the aplomb of seasoned courtiers. Tickets were taken at the door by lords in elaborate silks and satins of another time. Impressive shields decorated the rooms at the club. They were made to last, taking about 80 hours to shape and paint. They will go into the recreation room at the Bob Ridgely home. The platform on which king Ridgely reigned was padded with foam, and held a throne imported from Italy — a one-night contribution of DeMolay.

Assisting Clubs

Chaperones for the after-graduation event were Mmes. and Messrs. Charles Cook, Walter Brummund, A. S. Dillon, Thomas Klenz, Keith Kohlman, Garrett Kurtz, Robert Tucker and the Rev. and Mrs. I. B. Kindem.

Co-sponsoring clubs were Zeus Hi-Y, which had charge of publicity and ticket sales, and Argus Hi-Y, which took care of clean-up chores.

At the end of the 10 p.m. to 2 a.m. dance, graduates and their dates went on to a post-prom party, sponsored by the Appleton Elks Lodge 337 from 1:30 to 5 a.m. Dancing and snacks rounded out graduation night festivities. This event was under the charge of Wendall Smith, Youth Activities chairman.

A Night When Past and Future Meet

The light in their eyes is young and eager — impaled on the point of idealism; their walks show newly acquired grace and poise, but their conversation is still centered on classes and teachers and yesterday's world. They have reached a milestone, and they know it.

The Appleton High School graduation prom Thursday evening was both an end and a beginning. It was the last big event for the class of '64; the last time some members would ever be seen by others; the last, and lasting, remembrance of 12 years with the same friends, familiar teachers, the years of youth.

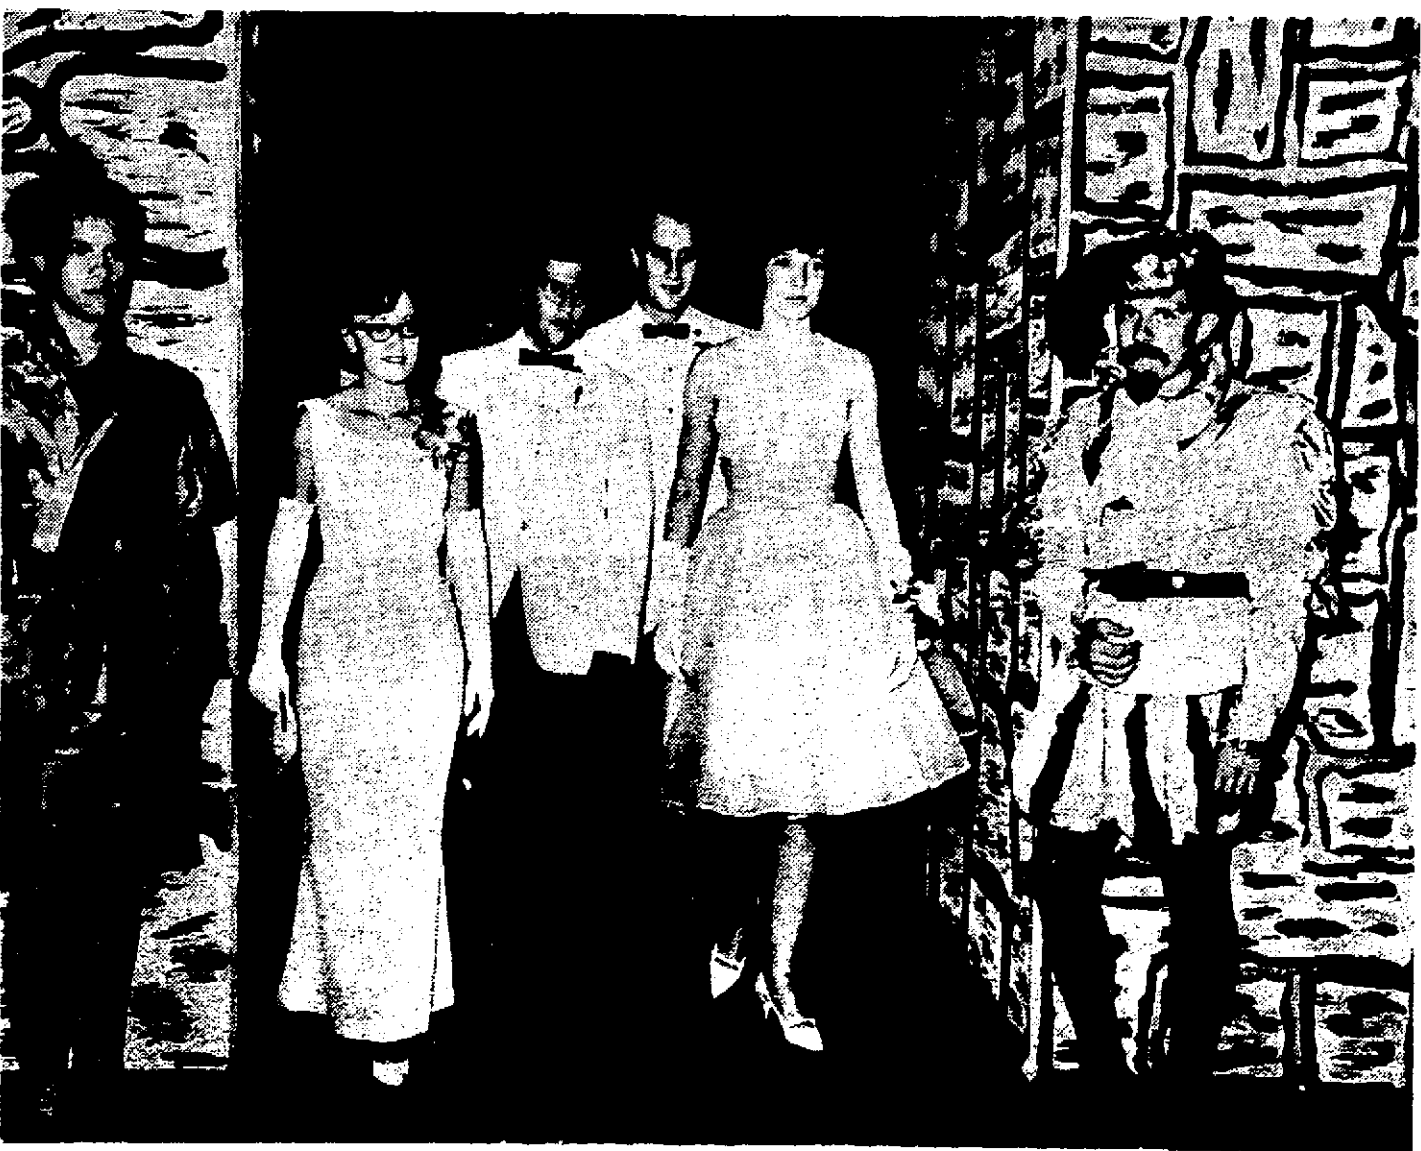

Received Diplomas.

The young men and women, brief hours before applauded as they crossed the stage to receive diplomas, were dressed in party best. Some brought an air of sophistication with their long, pencil slim gowns and neat coiffures; others looked young and vulnerable and unready for the adult life they are about to begin.

Many of the girls, or their mothers, made the gowns of chiffon and lace, pleats and embroidery that were worn to the last 'school' party. White was the favorite color, but among it was dotted pastel blues, yellows and pinks, and greens as deep as springtime. Young men, not quite sure of their newly-acquired adult status, wore flowers in their buttonholes and squired their dates with courtesy and consideration.

Not Quite Same

This week, as the graduates go back to bermudas and shirts, jeans and tennis shoes, they are the nonchalant, bright young adults they were before — but never quite the same. In between was graduation an end and a beginning.

The 'peasants' had the job of welcoming arriving graduates and their dates to Riverview Country Club for the post-graduation dance. Assisting Nancy Kuba and Thomas Roemer with their car are Archie Lappi, left, and William Jensen, right. Above right, Robert Schneider and Gordon Schuh guarded the castle door as Sara Scheib, Steve Barney, Mary Weiscek and Mark Uhl entered the party. Farewells Said to Miss McKennan

Miss Ruth McKennan is leaving Appleton. For 41 years she played an active role in the community, meeting and directing students who studied speech and drama at Appleton High School.

Although she retired from teaching in 1960, her years of service led Miss McKennan to further contribute to those who needed to learn. As a volunteer with the American Red Cross, she became the mainstay of the staff concerned with the education of mentally ill children at Winnebago State Hospital. Now, after 45 years in which she has been such an important part of Appleton, and Appleton has become an important part of her, she will live with her twin sister in Aurora, N. Y. The former teacher and Gray Lady has been honored by many of her friends during the last few weeks. She will leave for New York Wednesday.

Miss Ruth McKennan was honored by the Gray Ladies at a cocktail party Friday at the home of Mrs. Raymond Max, 17 Meadowbrook Court. Since her retirement from teaching, Miss McKennan has served more than 1,000 hours as a Gray Lady at Winnebago State Hospital. Above are Mrs. R. L. Avery, Miss McKennan, Mrs. Stephen Balliet and

A Lovelier You

Need to Gain Weight?

BY MARY SUE MILLER

More time and determination are needed for a slim-jane to gain an ounce than for a roly-poly to lose a pound. When you are in good health and "just can't gain," you have to face the fact that you do not eat enough and face up to eating more. And it's not easy!

You would not be underweight were it not for a fussy appetite. Teaching it to accept a greater variety of foods in greater quantities, as you must, requires strong discipline. If you really have the will, this program insures gains:

- 1 Add 500 calories to present daily intake for two weeks. Then up count to gaining quota. To figure exact count, multiply your ideal weight by 15, then add 500.
- 2 Expend calorie allotment on three well-balanced meals and three between-meal snacks. Base meals on meats, fish, fowl or eggs; buttered whole-grain bread; yellow, red and leafy green vegetables, potatoes or other starchy vegetables; fruits and fruit juices, simple desserts, whole milk. Snack on milk, cheese and crackers, custards, and ice cream.
- 3 Increase scope of diet; overcome distaste for a dish by repeatedly sampling it.
- 4 Take time to relax before eating—really let down.
- 5 Except for milk; forego beverages with meals.
- 6 Guard general health; get nine hours of sleep, take plenty of mild exercise, try to take work and worries in stride. Otherwise you expend energy so fast that you scarcely can take in enough calories to keep going, much less to gain.

Do you have a hand problem? Send today for Lovelier Hands, a booklet that covers every step in a quest for handy beauty. It tells how to keep the skin and nails groomed; how to overcome weak nails, polish chips, discolored knuckles, prominent veins, wrinkles, how to use the hands with poised grace. To obtain your copy, write Mary Sue Miller in care of Appleton Post-Crescent, enclosing a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin.
